NO. 250-SEVENTY-SECOND YEAR

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1930

TWENTY-TWO PAGES

MILLION TO BE COST OF COURTHOUSE

Government Decision on Site for New Building Momentarily Expected

TWO LOCATIONS NOW UNDER CONSIDERATION

Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., Makes Announcement at Conservative Meeting

THAT Provincial Government plans for a new Victoria courthouse had progressed to the point where it was known that the cost of the building would be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, and that the decision was to be made almost immediately concerning the site of the building, with two locations now under consideration, was intimated by Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., last night in the course of an address at the annual meeting of Wards Six and Seven Conservatives in the Campbell Building.

Mr. Hayward also emphasized the advantages to Victoria of a West Coast road, routed to Bamfield and Tofino via Jordan River and Port Renfrew.

"The logical road for the West Coast, from Victoria's standpoint, is from the Jordan River end and on by way of Port Renfrew and Bamfield, thence by ferry to Long Beach," Mr. Hayward intimated in his reference to the projected link of the West Coast with the rest of the province. This southern route would help more than anything else to get back for Victoria some of the business from the West Coast which had been diverted to Vancouver. On the other hand, if the road were carried through via Nanaimo and Alberni, this would seal all the Tofino trade into Vancouver.

A BAD MOVE
"Politically I think this last as a suggested route is a bad move," the member maintained. It would be impossible to have both roads, and anyone with Victoria's welfare at heart should boost for the continuance of the road which had been built already about six miles beyond Jordan River. This West Coast road had been one of the planks in the Conservative party's campaign at the last election, so the Liberals could not honestly claim any share in it.

In conclusion, Mr. Hayward appealed to Provincial Conservatives to stand together, by loyalty to their leader, Dr. Tolmie, showing a solid front to the Opposition. In this connection he paid a generous tribute to the Premier for his

Prominent Banker Brands Tariff and Immigration Systems as Useless

DECLARATION AROUSES WIDESPREAD COMMENT

By a Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)
CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—The United States is making a futile attempt to maintain a high standard of living against all the rest of the world through a mistaken tariff and immigration policy, John W. Barton, vice-president of the Metropolitan National Bank of Minneapolis and president of the National Bankers' Association, declared last night in addressing his division. Several hundred officials of national banks from all parts of the country listened intently to this declaration.

"I am very much inclined to the opinion that our standard of living is too high," Mr. Barton said. "In this age of fast and efficient methods of transportation and communication, all nations are too near together to successfully maintain for any appreciable length of time any material difference in the standards of living."

Aviator-Geologist Found Safe After Many Days in Wilds

Harold G. Finland, Former Victorian, Located by One of Eight Planes After Intensive Search Through North Saskatchewan—Was Forced Down by Shortage of Gasoline

Spent Last Two Days Without Food

LAC LA RONGE, Sask., Sept. 29.—Harold G. (Mike) Finland, who spent twelve days in the Barrens, two without food, offered a toast to the grim Northland tonight as he celebrated his rescue from its fastness at this radio station outpost.

A pilot-geologist for the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, Finland disappeared on a flight on September 18. Without gasoline, he was forced to make a landing on a flight from here to Wollaston Lake. Then, he waited rescue, with only his Indian guide, Malcolm Roberts, for a companion.

WAS SEEKING GASOLINE

Yesterday, Finland was found a few miles southeast of Reindeer Lake after days of intense search from the air. His guide had started on a canoe trip up the lake to its south end, where a gasoline cache was stationed. Today, Finland and Roberts were flown back to Lac La Ronge, base of search operations. The greatest aerial hunt in Northern Saskatchewan's history had ended.

Except for a gnawing appetite due to two foodless days, Finland carried back no souvenirs of his experience. He and Roberts were hungry but well-groomed and ready to resume their search when it seemed food could not be obtained.

SMOKE PLUME WAS GUIDE

Pilot J. Ready, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, flying a Vickers Vimy, sighted a tall smoke plume that circled lazily into the sky southeast of Reindeer Lake. It was a signal and Ready dashed toward it. Landing, the pilot found Finland, accompanied by another Indian. A few miles distant was Finland.

Ready and his observer, J. P. O'Neill, had food for the missing men. Taking gasoline as well to Finland, they decided it was too late to attempt the flight back to Lac Ronge.

Four other machines of the eight-plane search armada that had set out at dawn to resume the hunt circled overhead. They, too, landed, and Finland and his discoverers camped beside their planes all night. This morning they returned.

Members of Economic Committee Clash Over European Tariffs Plan

ADJOURNMENT TO TAKE PLACE AT END OF WEEK

GENEVA, Sept. 29.—Its hardest forensic battles over disarmament and economic relief scheme concluded, the eleventh Assembly of the League of Nations tonight entered upon its closing phase. At the evening session the Assembly began to ratify the work of its six committees for adopting reports dealing with manifold activities of the league.

Among the reports was that of the disarmament committee, which recommended complete in November the drafting of a plan for general disarmament so the council might call a world conference for reduction and limitations of arms "as soon as possible."

WILL ADJOURN SHORTLY

Routine work will require two or three days more with final adjournment expected Thursday evening or Friday morning.

A final scrimmage occurred today in the economic committee between Europeans and overseas delegates. Interested in world markets for farm products, the Europeans wished to obtain the blessing of the league for their plan to set up preferential tariff rates in Europe for their goods.

Canadians, South Africans and Australians insisted the league could not actively approve of any limited group action which might operate against the interests of another state or group.

In the course of the debate, Pierre Etienne Flaminio, French commerce minister, declared overseas countries were, by their attitude, obstructing the work of the league.

Two major questions still remain before committees. One of these, a proposal for amending the League Covenant in harmony with the Kellogg Pact, developed strong divergence of opinion and was sent to a subcommittee.

Unable to obtain early space for their fruit on refrigerator ships plying between North Pacific ports and the United Kingdom, Okanagan shippers are sending fifty cartons of apples to the plant of the Victoria Cold Storage & Terminal Warehouse, Limited, where they will be maintained in good condition until November, when they will go forward to England in a ship of the Donaldson Line.

A carload of apples from the inland valley is already stored at the local plant, and the Princess Maquinn will arrive alongside with several carloads this morning, the Canadian Pacific facilitating in every way possible the speedy transit of the fruit.

MUST AWAIT SHIP

From now on, the shipment will arrive from day to day until the whole cargo is assembled to await the coming of the freight ship in which it will go forward to its destination.

At present, the local plant is being freely used by Victoria and Island business men dealing in vegetables, fruit, poultry, meats and fish of all kinds. A large shipment of poultry is being prepared to fill an order from South America, while shipments of fish to go forward within the next week are being for Italy, Spain, France and England.

WINS HIGH PRAISE

When President E. W. Beatty's party was in Victoria recently, several members visited the plant, among them being J. E. McDonald, president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Express Company. They were given samples of processed corn and peas.

In a letter received by H. G. Brown, manager of the Victoria Cold Storage & Terminal Warehouse, Limited, yesterday, Mr. McDonald congratulated him on the excellent flavor of both corn and peas after being defrosted and cooked in the regular way. They were served on the dining car going East, and pronounced equal to the fresh article.

Conservative plan is termed logical

U. S. Farm Board Head Comments on Proposals for Wheat Purchases on Quota Basis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The British Conservative party's plan for wheat purchases on a quota basis of 25 per cent home grown, 50 per cent imported from the Dominion, and 25 per cent from other countries, is a "logical proposal," according to Chairman Alexander Legge, of the United States Farm Board.

The scheme seeks to accomplish, he said, what other European nations are doing through their tariff barriers. Whatever the British do, he added, he sees no hope for an improvement in United States wheat exports to Great Britain.

European dumping of wheat at the present rate, he said, is a great wrong, if it is kept up at the present rate, he said.

Notables Inaugurate New Service

Definite Regions to Be Set for Hearing Cases—Applicants to Be Given Access to Files Covering Their Records

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—The members of the new pensions tribunals are en route to Ottawa for a conference, during which their duties and the regions to which they are to be assigned will be thoroughly explained, declared Lieut.-Col. Thomas Morrison, V.D., chairman of the pensions tribunals, here today.

While he was able to fix no definite date on which the tribunals will begin to function, Colonel Morrison hoped to have everything in shape within the next two weeks. The new Pensions Act becomes effective on October 1.

ARRANGING REGIONS

The allotting of regions within which the tribunals will operate is receiving close attention. Tentatively Ontario will be served practically by three courts, Eastern Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces, and all likelihood constitute one region; Central and Western Ontario will be a second; a third will extend from the head of the lakes and will embrace the greater part of the three Prairie Provinces, while the fourth tribunal will take in British Columbia and, possibly part of Alberta. Regionally the largest number of pensioners reside in Ontario.

CAN SEE FILES

One of the greatest grievances, prior to the institution of the present system, was that claimants had no access to their own files, and such were not usually available to them in presenting their cases. This grievance is now being eliminated. The department has set up a huge photostat machine capable of making 3,000 reproductions a day. Original relative documents will be produced and the reproduction made available to the man, through the pensions advocate, in preparation of his case.

WORK IS WAITING

A large number of pensions claims await the tribunals. As the new system will function, all claims will go, as before, to the board of pension commissioners, a body which has been left intact. This board has power to approve pensions, but has no power of rejection. Those which it would ordinarily have rejected will be turned over to the tribunals in the district where the man resides, and the applicant will have the opportunity of presenting his case. This may be heard either publicly or in camera as the claimant chooses.

Of the Great War pensioners in Canada it is interesting to note that the oldest veteran is eighty-three; one is eighty-five; one is eighty-seven; one is eighty-eight; one is eighty-nine; one is ninety; one is ninety-one; one is ninety-two; one is ninety-three; one is ninety-four; one is ninety-five; one is ninety-six; one is ninety-seven; one is ninety-eight; one is ninety-nine; one is one hundred.

Thousands of Cecilia Citizens Take Refuge in Second Stories of Houses

LEIGHORN, ITALY, Sept. 29.—A hurricane piled up a tidal wave in the River Cecilia near here today, flooding the town of Cecilia to a depth of seven feet.

Thousands of citizens took refuge in the second stories of houses, on roofs. The railroad line to Rome was washed out for half a mile.

Soldiers sent from Leighorn in trucks rescued inhabitants with the use of skiffs. Crops of several thousand acres were ruined, and property damage was considerable.

There were no dead or injured.

Crusade for Spanish Republic Is Launched

MADRID, Sept. 29.—Minister of the Interior Enrique Maza today said he would await a report from the prosecuting attorney before taking action against the leaders of a throng of 20,000 persons who last night held a mass meeting in furtherance of their crusade for a Spanish republic.

The utterances are a matter for the prosecuting attorney to study to see if the speakers violated the law relative to publicly criticizing the monarch, he said.

Fury denunciations of the monarchy were a feature of the mass meetings, and all Spain today showed its excitement over the incident.

DOMINIONS ALREADY POSSESS RIGHT OF EMPIRE SECESSION

Governor May Make Farewell Tour of Coast Next Spring

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Tentative plans are under consideration for Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon to make a farewell tour of Western Canada and the Pacific Coast next spring. Their Excellencies will leave on Thursday for a twenty-five-day autumn tour of the Maritimes, which will be in the nature of a farewell visit. Viscount Willingdon's term expires next summer.

Thomas Tells Newspapermen That This Question Was Settled 4 Years Ago

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS FEATURE GATHERING

Empire Court of Appeals Is Considered Possibility—Premiers All Arrived

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, in an interview with newspapermen of several nations, today declared that nobody questioned the right to secede from the British Empire. His statement replied to a question whether the secession issue would come up at the Imperial Conference which will open Wednesday.

"I may have the right to shoot myself," he said, "but you have the right to argue with me regarding the wisdom of my action."

MUCH IS EXPECTED

The Secretary would not say that the right of Dominion to secede from the British Empire would be likely to be formally recognized by the conference. The constitutional aspects of the British Commonwealth are considered to have been definitely settled at the last Imperial Conference and the present "family gathering" of Empire Premiers in London will deal largely with economic problems, Mr. Thomas asserted, adding:

"The conference meets at a time when the economic world outlook is dark—darker than in previous generations. Yet it is just because our economic difficulties are so grave that the work of the conference is so eagerly anticipated and so much is expected from it."

EMPIRE COURT

He said an Empire Court of Appeals or some such tribunal is likely to emerge from the conference for solution of legal problems such as evolve from the work of the Privy Council.

The Prime Ministers of the Dominions, accompanied by Ministers, experts and members of secretariats, had tea with Prime Minister the Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald at 10 Downing Street today.

With the arrival of the Irish Free State's delegation, under President William Cosgrave, last night, the assembly of the British nations is now complete, save for the absence of the Canadian delegation, under Prime Minister Hon. R. B. Bennett, who are expected to arrive tomorrow.

Strawberry Pool Will Distribute Between $30,000 and $40,000

"There won't be any more surplus strawberries. That is the main accomplishment of the loan made by the Government to the berry growers last year," said Mr. Martin, Industrial Commissioner for the Province, explained yesterday on the winding-up of the plan by which British Columbia growers were aided in the handling of their surplus crops in 1929.

The processed berries took such a lively hold on the market that independent and private enterprises at Victoria and Vancouver have taken up the plan, and are now in a position to take care of all likely surplus berries for some years to come. The cold storage carton pack system, first developed under the aid of the $38,000 loan made by the Government last year, has become a standard feature of berry marketing throughout Canada.

The entire amount of the loan has been repaid to the Government, and profits made for the growers, through the sale of processed berries by the Berry Processors, Limited, the co-operative organization which handled the system, will be distributed to the berry pool, totaling between $30,000 and $40,000 will be sent out in the final settlement from the berry pool, it is stated.

Directors of the body include H. E. Tanner and R. S. Twining, for Vancouver Island, and W. H. Robertson, for the Mainland. Details in connection with the final distribution to be made by the pool are now being arranged, and some cheques will go forward this week, it is stated.

Wins Indian Appeal

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Lukmani, serving a four months' imprisonment sentence for picketing liquor shops, won an appeal today on the ground that temperance work does not constitute picketing. Court of Appeals ordered the Indian woman released.

COUNCIL PURCHASES SINKING FUND BONDS

Bays Securities Amounting to $95,000
—Refuses John Dean Offer—
Other Council Business

For the purpose of sinking fund investment the City Council, at its regular meeting last night, approved the purchase of $95,000 in bonds, $30,000 of which is Dominion of Canada 5 per cent, at a price of 106, to yield 4.87. The council also purchased $17,000 of British Columbia bonds, 6 per cent, at 110, to yield 4.75. The remainder is made up of small amounts.

Last night's meeting of the council was devoted principally to routine matters, over which there was little or no discussion. John Dean, who has been interested in the coordination of the civic waterworks system and a system of irrigation for some considerable time, addressed the members in respect to an offer to pay $1,000 if the city would pay $500 to secure a report on the proposed project from a nationally-known firm of waterworks engineers in the Old Country. The majority of the members of the council expressed themselves as opposed to the expenditure of money on the grounds that the proposed report was not necessary at this time and voted accordingly. Mr. Dean outlined his proposal and answered questions put to him by the aldermen. The offer of Mr. Dean's offer the aldermen expressed their thanks to Mr. Dean for the interest he had taken in the matter.

OPPOSITION TO BASE

Alderman Straith informed the council that, in view of opposition to the proposed seaplane base, arrangements had been made to hold a meeting of all parties interested this afternoon. The matter was brought up in the council by a letter from the Deputy Minister of National Defence, stating that objections have been raised by the two transportation companies against the site chosen for the seaplane base. Mr. Straith stated he had every reason to be confident that all matters would be adjusted at the meeting.

W. E. Strout, a delegate from the Vancouver Island Unemployed Association, addressed the meeting requesting early action be taken with regard to work.

The mayor informed the delegate the council was acting as rapidly as possible.

The city solicitor was instructed to prepare a by-law to regulate barber shops in Victoria. Two petitions were presented, one for the repeal of the old by-law and one to authorize a new measure. It was stated that the old by-law contained several technical faults.

The purchasing agent, E. C. Mitchell, was authorized to call for tenders for supplies of police and firemen's clothing as per the request of the departments.

A request for the lease of the motor building at the fair grounds was laid on the table for further consideration. The motor dealers desire to lease the building for a period of eleven years and to pay for repairs and maintenance.

The council requires more information.

FIRE HALL SITE
Under the heading of unfinished business the council adopted Clause 3 of the fire wardens' report of May 9, recommending the reservation of a site on Douglas and Blanshard Streets for fire hall purposes. The site was ordered reserved, but no action was taken with regard to the building of a fire station.

Several protests in connection with the removal of dilapidated buildings were referred to the finance committee for report.

A recommendation from the medical health officer with reference to the keeping of cows and goats in the city was referred to the department of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities for presentation.

The purchasing agent was authorized to call for tenders for the binding and printing of the municipal voters lists.

The council authorized the appointment of the following persons to take oaths of declaration of householders and licensees in connection with the voters' lists for 1930 and 1931: J. A. Angus, A. F. Taylor, H. H. Lord, L. E. Gower and John Baxter.

Following the regular meeting the council went into committee until 10 o'clock.

SAYS POLICIES OF U.S. WRONG; EFFORT FUTILE

ARE WRONG ON BOTH
"Our tariff wall and immigration policy is a masterly effort to maintain our high standard of living against the rest of the world, and I think we are wrong on both. We are producing a large surplus of agricultural products and manufactured articles of all kinds from an abundance of raw materials, and if we do not buy we cannot expect to sell. If our tariff wall tends to reduce our foreign trade, as I think it will, then we need more people to consume our surplus. Yet we further restrict immigration and at the same time continue to reclaim arid lands at an enormous expenditure of capital annually."

AROUSING MUCH INTEREST
Mr. Barton's outspoken declaration against the present high tariff policy of the United States stirred an intense interest among the banker delegates who are present here for an earnest consideration of the manifold causes contributory to the present economic recession. The declaration was an immediate success, as it was a statement of the common sense of the one for a domestic bank, and the comment it aroused was widespread.

MONSIGNOR GROUARD IS SERIOUSLY ILL

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—Monsignor Grouard, ninety-year-old former vicar apostolic of Athabasca, Alta., is seriously ill. It was reported here today. Monsignor Grouard, present head of the diocese, who was on a visit to Montreal, has received an urgent call to return to Grouard, in view of the aged prelate's grave condition.

MAN IDENTIFIED AS BANDIT-CAR DRIVER

C. H. Shively Alleged to Have Aided Robbers Who Held Up Everett Bank

EVERETT, Sept. 29.—Two weeks after the Citizens' Security Bank was held up and $44,300 taken, part of the holdup was re-enacted today in an attempt to identify a suspect as the driver of the bandit car.

Clarence H. "Dick" Shively, former Seattle policeman, was placed at the wheel of an automobile in front of the bank, and witnesses of the holdup viewed him. Patrolman Fred Lawrence identified him as the unmasked driver of the machine who waited at the curb on September 15 while his masked mates staged the robbery.

Several other witnesses said Shively closely resembled the man at the wheel. Patrolman Lawrence He was brought to the bank and said he observed the driver closely.

Shively was arrested at his inn on the Hood Canal, near Shelton, after days of surveillance, during which officers had sent witnesses of the holdup to the inn. None of the holdup was seen.

He was brought to the Snohomish county jail. His bail was set at $10,000.

SURVEY PARTY BELIEVED TO HAVE DROWNED

year old son of Walter J. Nixon, a guide and game warden at Invermere.

DANGEROUS WATERS
In the late Spring the party reported difficulty in securing experienced boatmen who knew the river in that area, due to the number of parties in the field and tourist activities. Special authority was granted to Mr. Hallam to secure the boatmen properly acquainted with what is recognized as a dangerous section of the river, and the survey commenced.

On Monday of last week Mr. Hallam and his assistants were at Burrish Rapids, and intended to go to Kinbasket Lake. This involved the traverse of swift water between Golden and Bush. Nothing more was heard of the party until their capsized canoe was found late on Saturday night.

On discovery of the empty canoe word was immediately sent to F. C. Green, Surveyor-General for the Province, who left at once for the scene of the mishap. No time has been lost by the Provincial police in getting search parties out along the river, and all efforts are being made to find the missing men, or to recover the bodies if death by drowning has been their fate.

RELATIVES NOTIFIED
In a wire to officials at Victoria yesterday afternoon, officers of the Provincial Police, confirmed the report of the accident, and told of effective steps to search for traces of the missing men. First word of the mishap reached Victoria on Sunday, after notification of relatives of the three men.

Difficult and dangerous waters in the section of the river which lay in the path of the party after they left Burrish Rapids are believed to have been the point at which the frail canoe capsized, leaving only anxious conjecture as to the fate of the three lives it had carried.

Both Mr. Hallam and Mr. Game are well known in Victoria, and have been identified for some time past with surveying in British Columbia. Walter Nixon has joined the search for his eldest son.

MILLION TO BE COST OF COURTHOUSE

patriotic action in re-entering provincial politics against his personal inclination for the sole purpose of serving the party need. Such action was taken on the part of the Conservative. The Conservatives had taken over the control of things in British Columbia when they had reached a very bad state through bad management on the part of the Liberals, and the rank and file must not expect a sweeping reform of conditions in the short space of two years. And, despite the occasional criticism which was heard as the present time, there was not the slightest doubt that, if another provincial election were held at the present time, the Conservatives would once more be returned to power.

Oak Bay Conservatives were congratulated by Mr. Hayward on the officers whom they had returned, at the evening's meeting, these being as follows:

President, Gordon Cameron (re-elected for the fifth time); secretary, Hugh Albarr (re-elected); executive, J. H. Frank, W. J. Alder (re-elected), W. E. Tapley (re-elected), W. Barrowclough (re-elected), F. C. Niver, R. R. Neild, Hew Falconer, R. G. Monro (re-elected), L. W. Bullock-Webster and E. M. McConnan.

Mr. Cameron presided and R. Woolton, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, spoke a few words of congratulatory character concerning the officers elected and the general conditions within the ranks of the party. This, however, was a fairly general condition in the Conservative ranks throughout Canada, as the election of Mr. Bennett by such overwhelming odds had proved. The measures which the Prime Minister had already instituted to revise the tariff and bring about economic relief must be a source of satisfaction to all Conservatives.

The meeting, amid applause, passed a vote of congratulation to Mr. Woolton on his approaching marriage.

THREE MEN KILLED IN GAS EXPLOSION

Four Others Badly Burned in Accident at Mine Near Old Forge, Pennsylvania

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 29.—Three men were killed and four injured in a gas explosion in Pittston Coal Company mine near Old Forge today. The blast occurred in what is known as the Niger vein of the Central mine in Avoca.

Those killed were Adolph Erioli, thirty-two; Mosley Robert Brunetti, thirty, Old Forge, and Marcello Monticelli, thirty-five, Old Forge. The four injured are badly burned about the head and body and will hardly recover, doctors said.

THIRTY ONE CASES ARE ON DOCKET AT VANCOUVER ASSIZES

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Fifty cases were submitted to the grand jury by Chief Justice Morrison at the opening of the Assizes today. Forty-eight petit jurors were in attendance and were excused until Tuesday morning, when the first trial is scheduled to commence. It will be a charge of having narcotic drugs in possession against "Tim" Poy Lim, should there be a true bill returned on the indictment. Jonathan Rogers was chosen foreman of the grand jury.

There are thirty-one cases on the docket. The accused number thirty-seven. C. M. O'Brien, K.C., is Crown counsel.

Coast Man Appointed By Queen's University

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Word has been received from Queen's University, Kingston, that James Aitken, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Aitken, Vancouver, has been appointed lecturer in economics.

Mr. Aitken received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of British Columbia in 1926 with honors in economics. The following year he received his Master of Arts degree from the University of Washington. During 1929 and 1930 Mr. Aitken studied at the University of Chicago on a valuable research fellowship.

RESERVES JUDGMENT ON SUCCESSION DUTY

Mr. Justice Gregory heard additional evidence yesterday in chambers with respect to the contention that the adopted daughter of Mrs. Redmond should be regarded as having been in reality an adopted daughter of the late Dr. Redmond. The payment of succession duties is involved. These would not be collectable were she accepted as an adopted daughter of the testator, Dr. Redmond.

A copy of a former will which had been discovered by Mrs. Redmond was produced, in which the words "my adopted daughter" were used. H. A. Maclean, K.C., on behalf of Mrs. Redmond argued that in every way the deceased had cared for the child as his own, making provision for her future in his will.

Col. Eric Pepler, who appeared for the Government, said that the only as it affected the revenues of the Province. He contended that had Dr. Redmond wished, he could have taken out adoption papers. This he had not done.

Mr. Justice Gregory reserved judgment.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND BLOOD PRESSURE

A chief cause of blood pressure is acidity from eating acid-forming foods. To counteract, use alkaline-forming foods. The only alkaline-forming foods are fruits, vegetables, milk, almonds, egg yolks and Roman Meal (the only alkaline grain food known). At fifty my pressure was 215, heart threatening to stop each beat. By exercising in bed, overcoming tension, eating alkaline Roman Meal, fruits, etc., my pressure at seventy-two is 130—heart—I can run five miles in forty-seven minutes, run up four flights of steps two at a time, work ninety hours a week and never tire. Alkaline Roman Meal, fruits, etc., are remarkable vitamins for sick or well, when used properly. Write for free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and other literature, also sample of Roman Meal and Kefy-sub, the new alkaline beverage, to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 315 Vine Ave., Toronto 9, Ont. (Adv.)

VANCOUVER SHIPPING
Vancouver, Sept. 29.—Her propeller damaged by striking a floating log in Puget Sound on Sunday, while bound for Vancouver, Mrs. Balboa, of Johnson line of Sweden, is in port to load 3,000 tons of grain and general.

She is considerably ahead of her schedule, according to C. Gardner Johnson, limited, company agents for British Columbia, and so the accident to her propeller will not cause any distress. The ship will be in drydock Wednesday for the necessary repairs.

At present the drydock is occupied by the Norwegian Ms. Bronnøy and the Imperial oil tanker, Ms. Alfortville, both undergoing general repairs, scraping and painting.

With a new engine plant, taken from the Atlantic steamer Albert Ballin, the North German Lloyd Ms. Este arrived here this morning to the Pacific Company. The ship made 135 knots with her new turbines. The Ballin has a new power plant to speed up her Atlantic service.

ZION CITY OVERSEER VISITING VANCOUVER

John Alexander Dowie's Successor Says No Unemployment Where He Holds From

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, Overseer of Zion City and the man who succeeded John Alexander Dowie, is an interested visitor in Vancouver and brings with him the statement that he is the head of a city in which there is absolutely no unemployment. "Everybody has something to do at home," he said on his arrival at the Canadian National depot here. "We limit our population with that end in view, and I firmly believe every country should do the same, that is limit the immigration to its capacity for assimilation." Voliva says the death rate at Zion City is the lowest on the American continent and the birth rate is the highest. Strict quarantine is exercised against infectious diseases, and they don't allow the sale of tobacco.

World conditions are beginning to stabilize themselves, Voliva believes. "The change will be very gradual," he said, "but I believe it has started. I do believe, however, that it will be two years before we return to our full normal conditions." Voliva and two associates are in Vancouver on a world tour.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—After several months overseas, Sir William Clark, High Commissioner for Great Britain in Canada, was back at his desk here today. To the Canadian Press he said that he found in Great Britain a great manifestation of interest in the development of trade between the Mother Country and Canada.

SAYS CHIEF JUSTICE OF ONTARIO TO RETIRE

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—A special dispatch to The Daily Star from London, Ont., states Chief Justice R. M. Meredith has tendered his resignation to the Government, to take effect October 5. His Lordship gives age and the possibility of a breakdown in health as the reasons for his resignation. He points out in the letter he sent to the Prime Minister of the province that October 1 marks the end of his fortieth year in the judiciary of the province.

Chief Justice Meredith, now eighty-three years of age, has for some years been entitled to retire on full salary, but has refused to accept public money for retiring as long as he could carry on his duties, right?

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS LAID

William Piercy Arraigned in Court Following Alleged Altercation

TRUCK DRIVER IS 'DEAD'

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—One man is dead and another held on a charge of manslaughter following an alleged altercation near Hornby and Hastings Street late Saturday night.

Principals in the tragedy are Frank Hodson, truck driver, who is dead, and William Piercy, who is under arrest.

Hodson succumbed in the General Hospital Sunday night from a fractured skull, dying without regaining consciousness since his admission to the hospital the previous evening.

FALLS ON SIDEWALK
The case first came to the attention of the authorities when Hodson, reported to have fallen on the sidewalk, was removed to the Yale Hotel in a taxi upon instructions of some unknown person.

Upon his arrival at the hotel the manager immediately summoned a doctor, who ordered Hodson's removal to hospital.

Sunday, Piercy came to police headquarters and told officers that he wished to explain the circumstances, who ordered Hodson's removal to hospital.

As a result of his statements, said to be made under warning that Hodson was in a dying condition, and that he, Piercy, might face a serious charge, he was ordered by Detective R. Knox to be held for investigation.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE
When hospital authorities reported the death of Hodson, Piercy was formally charged with manslaughter.

Police believe the fatal injury to Hodson to have been the climax of an altercation which ended with his falling to the sidewalk, apparently striking the wall of a building while falling.

Piercy was remanded for a week upon appearance before Judge H. C. Shaw in Police Court this morning.

CHIROPRACTORS ASK FOR NEW LEGISLATION

Two Private Bills Proposed by Practitioners of Drugless Healing Art

Separate legislation, designed to give legal standing to chiropractors, and drugless healers who are not chiropractors, may be laid before the next session of the Provincial Legislature, sponsored either by private members or through the beneficiaries of the proposed measures themselves.

Members of the Legislature who took a prominent part in the discussion given to the subject at the last session now state that a bill has already been drafted covering chiropractors, and will be introduced by a private member, distinct and separate from any action taken by other drugless healers who are not chiropractors.

Drugless healers not covered in the bill are expected to present a proposed measure of their own, which would confer legal status on their calling.

There are literally scores of ways that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN can be eaten and enjoyed. Whatever way you eat it, ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded!

Many eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal. It is delicious with milk or cream. Another way is to use it in soups and salads. The practice of soaking it in fruit juice has grown very popular. Its addition to all cooked food is an appetizing and healthful one.

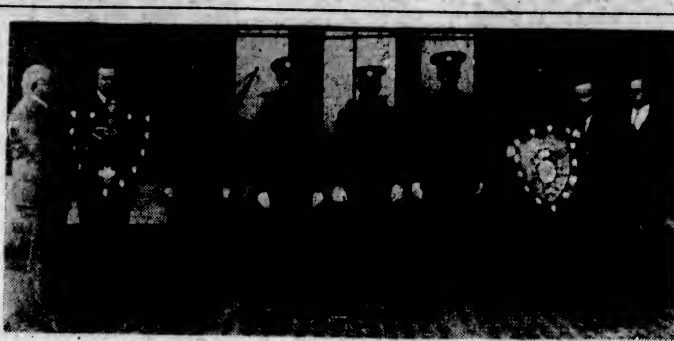

When you eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, you have the satisfaction of knowing that you are enjoying one of the most healthful habits on earth. It not only relieves constipation, but adds iron to the blood. In combination with milk or fruit juices, it brings important vitamins to the diet.

Every one should eat it to supply the bulk needed to balance the soft foods eaten today. Include ALL-BRAN in all reducing diets. It helps prevent constipation and anemia.

Order a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. You will like the improved texture and form. Your grocer has it. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Steady Advances Made in Agriculture in Province Annual Report Indicates

TEACHER TO RECEIVE MEDAL FOR BRAVERY

Miss Ellen Whittaker, Vancouver, Saved Wounded Sharpies From Drowning on July 24

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—"Gee, have you heard...?"

Three dozen eager young voices reiterated this question just before pretty Ellen Whittaker, twenty-one-year-old school mistress, took charge of her class at Laura Secord School this morning.

Last night the wires carried the news that Miss Whittaker had been awarded the Royal Canadian Humane Association's bronze medal for bravery in recognition of her heroic act in saving twelve-year-old Winifred Sharpies from drowning at Gibson's Landing on July 24.

The news spread by word-of-mouth wires, so that when Miss Whittaker went to work today she was accorded the warmest accolade of the Grade VII youngsters.

SAVED CHILD'S LIFE

Miss Whittaker saved little Winifred's life after the child, floating beyond her depth, had been submerged in twenty-five feet of water for ten minutes. The plucky school mistress dived, brought the victim to the surface and resuscitated her by means of the Schaffer method.

Miss Whittaker resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alare Whittaker, West Sixteenth Avenue, and has been a teacher at the school for nearly three years.

AWARDS FOR TWO MEN

Two Vancouver men were also included in the bronze medal awards: T. R. Elworthy, for heroic and resourceful rescue under great difficulty of Mrs. Katherine Makaroff, Russian swimming instructor, who had leaped overboard from the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, sailing between Shanghai and Hongkong, May 2.

Robert Dean, for heroic and resourceful action in assisting Elworthy.

Dean saw Elworthy struggling in the water with the woman, so he jumped over the board and helped in keeping her afloat until a boat was lowered and reached them.

Two Fines Inflicted

In the Esquimalt police court yesterday John Ruscoe was fined $25 for driving to the common danger and $5 for failing to come to a standstill with his car at a stop sign. The latter charge he pleaded guilty but did not resist. He was driving to the common danger. His complaint was with regard to driving along the Esquimalt Road in the vicinity of Signal Hill, which has been the scene of several accidents. Magistrate Jay felt the accused was driving too fast for such a dangerous place.

B.C.'s 1929 Output Shows Gain of $6,335,757 Over Previous Year

That great strides have been made in agriculture in British Columbia within the last few years is shown in the 1929 report of the Department of Agriculture. The substance of the report was communicated by Hon. William Atkinson to the Legislature at the last session, but a resume of the results obtained is interesting as showing steady advancement made along many lines during the past year.

British Columbia agricultural production, including livestock, increases and crop yields, reached the amazing total of $65,000,000 in 1929, a gain of $6,335,757 over the value of its products in 1928. The value of its products in 1929, a gain of $6,335,757 over the value of its products in 1928. The value of its products in 1929, a gain of $6,335,757 over the value of its products in 1928.

CENTURY OF DAIRYING

Little over a century ago, in July, 1829, the first dairy farm was established in the Fraser Valley, with cattle brought up the river to Port Langley. At the end of last year the province mustered 177,291 head of dairy cattle, and 239,153 head of beef cattle in addition.

Close attention has been paid to raising the standard of beef cattle for market, and encouragement given to the importation from famous United Kingdom herds of pure bred stock for foundation stocks in British Columbia.

WANT MORE SHEEP

There is room for expansion in the sheep industry, the report says, despite a great increase in flocks which numbered 130,192 head in 1927, and 205,332 head in 1929. Attention is being paid to the advisability for earlier lambing and the proper conditioning of all livestock for market. Graded and branded by the public are helping to build up the standard of meat offered for sale in the province, it is stated.

Assistance to fruit and vegetable growers of many parts of the province was given during the year, and effective results secured in the removal of many problems that once beset their business. The processing of several hundred tons of strawberries from Saanich and interior fields last year was an instance of the practical aid rendered, and this has been implemented in diverse and innumerable ways this year, including action on freight rates and irrigation.

Market intelligence, pest inspection and treatment and the establishment of actual contacts with the producers in all lines of agriculture through Farmers' Institutes is bringing about a sound and constructive basis for the agricultural prosperity of the province, the report of the department indicates. In a pamphlet of 150 pages the actual results of the year 1929 are described in detail.

SECOND ARREST IN STABBING AFFRAY

Ah Foon, Chinese, Apprehended Yesterday Afternoon by Chief Fry—Will Appear Today

Ah Foon, Chinese, who was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police John Fry, after a police search which lasted from 11 o'clock Saturday night until 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, stands today jointly charged with a juvenile, with committing actual bodily harm to Ng Shee, Chinese woman, fifty-nine years of age, who was stabbed at 856-1-2 Pandora Avenue, last Wednesday night at 10:30 o'clock.

The warrant for the arrest of Foon was sworn out following the hearing of the charge against the juvenile on Saturday.

Mrs. Ng Shee, who sustained cuts to the head and hand, was taken to the Jubilee Hospital and attended by Dr. Walter Bapty. She has been making good progress since her stay at the hospital.

Ah Foon will appear in the Police Court this morning.

Charged With Murder

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—Albert Vincent, twenty-eight-year-old farm laborer, was charged with murder Saturday, after he had been found criminally responsible by a coroner's jury, for the death of Edmund Trudeau, farmer of Racine, Quebec.

Trudeau's horribly battered body was found in the basement of the house in which he lived alone, last Wednesday.

MIMES AND MASQUERS PROGRAMME PREPARED

Victoria's Little Theatre Enterprise to Open on November 5 With Three Plays

The Mimes and Masquers' Guild, Victoria's contribution to the Little Theatre movement, has outlined its programme for an interesting season. Its first performance will take place on November 5, and will consist of three one-act plays; two full-length plays will be produced after Christmas, and two private entertainments will be given, to which associate members only will be admitted.

Following the democratic ideals of the community theatre, each member of the guild is given a chance to try for a part in any play selected for production. The casting committee has a difficult task choosing those to take part in the November production, since all who presented themselves for try-outs showed considerable acting ability.

THE PLAYS

"The Birthday of the Infanta," by Oscar Wilde, is being directed by Dr. Percy Barr, who was responsible for the very able production of Eugene O'Neill's "Ile" last Spring. The principal character in this play is the little dwarf "Fantastic," who has been brought from his home in the woods to dance for the entertainment of the Infanta on her birthday. Fraser Lister, who has been cast for this part, will have an opportunity to display his versatility. He will be supported by Ara Hayne as the Infanta.

Thelma Johns and Cleaver Wilson will play the parts of heroine and villain in "The Romanians," a comedy by Edmund Rostand, directed by Miss Ella Cameron. The cast will include Leslie Hardie and Edgar Kidd as Bergamin and Pasquino, the two old fathers who plot to unite the young people in marriage. Bert Baillie, as Straforel, the fencing master, who helps out the scheme, will have a most amusing character to portray.

The third play, "Op o' Me Thumb," by Frederick Penn and Richard Pryce, is being directed by Miss Rena Grant. It has another difficult leading character in Amanda, the wistful, pathetic, little cockney, who becomes a part which was created by Maude Adams. Kathryn Barr will interpret Amanda with H. S. Hurn as Horace Grimsby in the other leading role. Others in the cast are Madame Sanderson-Mongin, Betty Hetherington, Mrs. D. B. McConnan and Helen Hurn.

APPEALS TO PUBLIC

The Mimes and Masquers are asking the generous support of the public to help them build up a community theatre in Victoria. To drive has been launched for associate membership, which will give the guild an organized audience of discriminating people, who realize that a Little Theatre in this city will mean an opportunity to see some of the finest plays which will never come here through the ordinary vehicle of the road show.

The guild is an organization of enthusiasts, representing some of the best amateur talent in the city, and some of whom have had profitable experience in the Players' Club of the University of British Columbia. It is a non-commercial organization, composed entirely of volunteers who are amateurs in the best sense of the word.

Were in Gaming House

In the City Police Court yesterday morning, nineteen Chinese pleaded guilty through their counsel, W. C. Moreby, K.C., to being found in a common gaming house on Fisgard Street. Mr. Moreby admitted that the game played there was a variant of the Chinese game of dominoes and equipment, Chief Fry admitted that there were no actual operations going on there, nor was there any money found in that room. The accused were fined $10 each.

Instantly Killed

DELMORAIN, Man., Sept. 29.—Ernest R. Edwards, twenty-nine, of Winnipeg, was killed instantly when his automobile left the highway a few miles north of here Saturday night. Edwards was pinned in the door when the car plunged into the ditch and turned over. His companion, Miss Isabella Robertson, of Delmarine, was uninjured.

THE INCREASED TARIFFS

The attitude of the Opposition to Mr. Bennett's emergency tariff indicates a belief that there is a sense of thought in this country which prefers the imported article to that produced in the Dominion. The higher tariffs are designed to increase purchasing at home of what is made at home. It is an easy stage in the gradation of thought to come to the conclusion that any such policy which works well will mean ever-increasing employment in the country. The Conservative policy that has prevailed, one almost might say as a corollary of Confederation, is the conservation of our own resources for our own use. With economic conditions as they are at present this principle cannot be maintained unless there is an adequate policy of protection.

In effect what Mr. Bennett's policy does is to give to the Canadian producer a larger share in the home market. It is difficult to understand the attitude of both Liberals and Progressives in opposition to this course. They have offered no valid reasons why Canada should continue to buy American-made goods at the expense of those produced at home. The only excuse for their stand can be a time-honored adhesion to the shibboleth of free trade, a doctrine which, even when in power, they found it impossible to effect. Much of the opposition to the increased tariffs is inspired by the idea that whatever a Government does must be opposed by an Opposition; in other words, that an Opposition exists for the purpose of continuously destructive criticism.

It was natural to suppose that the tenor of the Opposition's criticism should be based on a statement that increased tariffs would mean higher prices. Neither Liberals nor Progressives said outright that they believed American goods were entitled to flood Canadian markets to the detriment of home manufacturers and producers. They claimed that commodities would cost more. They ignored the power granted in the raising of the tariffs to penalize those manufacturers who make the increase a pretext for raising prices to the home consumer. The fact is that the new tariff increases definitely protect both producers and consumers. They cannot fail to invoke a new era of prosperity.

AN UPHILL TASK

The tide of opposition to Prohibition in the United States has not yet developed to a point where there is a likelihood of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment whatever the future prospects may be. The fact that this issue has again assumed large proportions in the political life of the neighboring country is perhaps due to a sense of anger against the methods adopted for enforcement of the law. Any law which is as much honored in the breach as the observance is likely to fall into disrepute. The Americans are keenly conscious that the rest of the world regards their attempts to enforce Prohibition as provocative of humor. That is a situation which would be to ensue where the rights of human liberty were invaded.

It is a long cry from the present controversy to the abolition of Prohibition. Before the Eighteenth Amendment could be repealed two-thirds of the Senators and members of the House of Representatives would have to vote against it. That would not be sufficient. The issue would then go to the forty-eight States of the Union and three-fourths of these, or thirty-six, would be required to vote against Prohibition. In other words, thirteen States can insist on the maintenance of the law as it stands. Thus the advantage is at present on the side of the Drys. Prohibition may be a law favored only by the minority but the minority is in a strangely strong position. The situation, indeed, is that the effect of ten votes for the abolition of Prohibition can be nullified by one Dry vote, when the varying populations of States are taken into consideration. In other words, those who want to put an end to the present dispensation have a long, hard and uphill fight ahead of them.

TEN YEARS OF MANDATES

The working of the mandatory system during the ten years of its existence has been reviewed by Lord Lugard, who is well qualified to give an expert opinion. His verdict is definitely favorable. Though he was at first sceptical, experience has taught him, he says, that the system has been effective for its immediate purpose, and has also had a beneficial influence upon Colonial policy in general. This view will be endorsed by impartial observers who have followed its working closely, and more especially in regard to the "B" and "C" class mandates in Africa. It is natural that the class "A" mandates—Palestine, Syria and Iraq—should be those to attract the widest attention, for, being the most advanced of the mandated territories, they are the nearest to complete independence. Their government involves difficulties and problems of common interest to instructed opinion all over the world. The attainment of full sovereignty by Iraq is now consummated. Strictly speaking the Arab kingdom was not a mandated territory at all, but an ally of Great Britain, who had undertaken that the obligations of a mandatory were observed there; and in that way its affairs came under the supervision of the League Council through the medium of the Mandates Commission.

In the more backward territories, relinquished by Germany after the war, the mandatory system is undoubtedly having the most beneficial effects. By it the principle of exploitation in the sole interests of the possessing power has been definitely superseded by that of trusteeship, which is the pride of the British Empire to have created and upheld in its Colonial administration, and which in these post-war days has received international sanction. The mandatory has the absolute right to raise revenues or troops to make laws and enforce them, and to appoint all the necessary officials; but the difference from annexation, even in the "C" class mandates, is explicit, inasmuch as the mandatory is obliged to render an annual account of its stewardship. It has assumed obligations to the league as well as to the indigenous population; and the supervision of the Mandates Commission constitutes a fundamental distinction from the pre-war custom, in similar cases, of downright annexation. The annual examination of the Commission invites a popular verdict upon the manner in which a public trust has been fulfilled. It is a matter of pride to know that Great Britain and every one of her Dominions, which have been entrusted with mandates, have never drawn other than commendation from the Mandates Commission.

THE LENA GOLD FIELDS

The latest illustration of Soviet negation of trade agreements to which it has been a party is found in the case of the Lena Gold Fields. The story is summarized by The London Daily Telegraph. The Lena Company was first a concessionary enterprise under the old Russian Government. When the Communist dictatorship came into force the company was despoiled of its properties. The Government of Russia found it could make nothing of the gold-producing lands. It, therefore, invited the old company to cut its immense losses and to resume operations as a concessionaire of the Soviet Power. A new bargain was made. In the meantime the mining establishments had been wrecked and left derelict by incompetent managers and technicians.

When the new contract was signed the Lena Company expended $17,500,000 in restoring the properties. As work developed it became evident that the concession would yield a rich reward. Then, last year, the Soviet Government, commenced the task of driving the company out of Russia. Although the workers of the Lena Company were Russians they were "persecuted, terrorized and deprived of food and clothing as the employees of a capitalistic concern." The officials were arrested. It was made impossible for the company to carry on its work. The Soviet declared its contract at an end and made the statement that it was "neither interested in nor bound by" the results of an arbitration to which the company appealed, although, in the contract, it had undertaken to refer all matters in dispute to arbitration. The court awarded the Lena Company full damages. There is no chance of collecting these, and there the matter stands.

The Lena case is another of many incidents which will prevent the development of trade with Russia. The Soviet authority evidently does not know the meaning of good will and good faith. What has happened the Lena Company has also been happening in the case of German and American concessions. Russia's word, under the Soviet Power, is not to be trusted and it is difficult to see how, with things as they are, that country can be admitted into the economic comity of nations.

Zaro Agha, the 156-year-old Turk, has been struck down by a motor car on Broadway. He might have spent the last years of a life, which has developed so far beyond the allotted span, in peace and tranquillity had he stayed in Europe where the dangers to life and limb are insignificant as compared with those that exist in the United States.

NATURE EVER TRIUMPHANT

(The nature-lover finds himself in an American city.)

Sunset a riot of every hue
With slashes of green and flashing blue,
Purple hills, resounding sea,
Pines and poplars tossing free,
A magic world once made for me.
These the web of Nature's weaving,
Cunningly in memory leaved,
Store of wealth, used lavishly.

But oh!
The sun looks down so charily,
And peers about so warily
In smoke-veiled towns and greyish tenes
Betwixt gigantic cubes and cones—
Jungle growth of city stones—
In mammoth piles set daintily.

I miss the cool and grateful ease
Of walking north blue-latticed trees;
I miss the earth's refreshing scent
At Autumn's close or early Lent.
But Nature's far from beauty spent.

For ah!
Though city lights burn glistering,
And city smells are acrid,
She charms me here at sunset-hour
With primrose palace, lured tower,
And painter's store, used sparingly.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Which I wish to remark—
And my language is plain—
That for weeks that are vain,
Add for weeks that are vain.

The Russian mind, which of course is Oriental, and therefore prone to giving currency to weird concepts, Russian notions, like Russian music and art, are weird. During the Great War the Russians demonstrated that they could not be depended upon. They did not change sides in the war like their Oriental contemporaries, the Chinese, in their civil war; but during the war they changed their government, and they effected that change in a typically weird and Oriental way—in a way that modern Occidentals would perhaps describe as crude and barbaric. So we have reached the conclusion that no one can predict with precision what the Russian will do or what may happen in Russia.

After the Russians had murdered the Czar and either murdered the nobles or driven them out of the country and sequestered their property, they abolished the Dely and set up a materialistic system of philosophy. Then they looked upon their accomplishments, pronounced them good, and concluded that what was good for Russia would be quite as good or better for the people of all other nations of the world. With all the real characteristic of new converts, they set about the task of persuading or compelling all the rest of the world to declare that there was no God and no system of government so perfect as the Soviet system.

But the people of nations who are not so weird in their concepts as Orientals were not so easily converted to the Russian systems of philosophy, government and economics as the people of previous ages were to the Christian religion. The nations are distrustful of Russia and of everything which proceeds from the mouths of Russians. The nations did not respond to the Russian call for a revolution. Thus far they have rejected both the soft blandishments and the threats of the Soviet leaders. From such material as they could gather from Russia they have compared the Oriental system with the Occidental system, and decided to abide by their own systems of religion and government.

But the Russian mind is Oriental and subtle. Having failed to persuade the Occidental nations to revolutionize their systems of government, the Russians are trying to accomplish their object in other ways. They are attacking the forces of modern civilization and business in the rear and on the flanks. They are trying to create confusion in industries, to flood foreign markets with cheap products and to undermine confidence upon the exchanges by circulating sensational and false rumors about the volume of the goods they have produced and have available for export. By the circulation of such rumors they have demoralized the wheat markets of the world and created conditions approaching a panic. They hough "short" on the Chicago Exchange, and then circulated reports that they had chartered a great fleet of ships to transport grain from their ports on the Black Sea to the markets of the world, creating further demoralization in the wheat markets.

After having created a flurry almost culminating in a sensation, the Soviets announced that they had cancelled the charters of the fleet of ships engaged to carry wheat to the markets. The reports from both Odessa and Chicago were parts of the campaign of the Russians to undermine confidence in business and produce confusion in industry. The conditions throughout the world were favorable for an attempt to create a panic. The subtle Oriental mind perceived an opportunity and took advantage of it.

There will be all sorts of rumors coming out of Russia from time to time. There will be reports that the communist system of production on the farm and factories has proved so successful and the volume of production so great that no nation adhering to the individualistic or private system possibly can compete against it. But although it is hard to ascertain the whole truth about Russia, because the rulers of the country suppress the truth and circulate fiction, there is an infallible test for all claims which appear to be without substance. Time will uncover the whole truth about Russia. If the political, religious, moral, ethical and economic system set up in Russia can stand the test of time and survive, then the other nations of the world will be confronted with a situation demanding most serious consideration.

In the meantime, while it is true that the truth about Russia is hidden at the bottom of a well, it is equally true that almost anything may happen in Russia at any time. The leaders of Russian public opinion are very adaptable in their views. They have no fixed principles. They may change their views upon forms of government and economics as quickly as they forced their government to withdraw from the Great War.

MINER IS SMOTHERED TO DEATH IN CAVE-IN
HELENA, Mont., Sept. 28.—Covered by dirt and rocks in a cave-in at a mine twenty miles south-west of here, Ole Rindahl, seventy, veteran miner, was smothered to death yesterday. The accident was not immediately discovered, and life was extinct before the elderly man could be extricated.

TOOK PART IN MINES DEVELOPMENT IN B.C.
PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y., Sept. 29.—Daniel Guggenheim, a member of the Guggenheim family of mining magnates and widely known as a patron of aeronautics, died yesterday of heart disease at his estate, Hempstead House. He was seventy-four years old.

He was in poor health when he returned from Europe, September 19, and took to his bed Friday.
Mrs. Guggenheim, his son, Harry P. Guggenheim, Ambassador to Cuba, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Travis, were present when he died. Colonel Robert M. Guggenheim, United States Army, was summoned from Washington. Former Senator Stephen Guggenheim, a brother, is expected to arrive from Europe tomorrow on the liner, Isle de France. S. R. Guggenheim, another brother, was the family.

Mr. Guggenheim was one of the seven sons of the late Meyer Guggenheim and a member of the firm of M. Guggenheim & Sons which controls the vast mining interests of the family in this country, Alaska, Mexico, Africa, South America and Asia. The family fortune is rated as one of the greatest in America.

With the Premier Mine, the Guggenheim interests secured control of numerous properties in the Portland Canal District, including the Prosperity Group, the Cascade Falls and Silverado Group, and recently secured an option on the Planet Reduction Company of Nicola.

LAKE HILL COMMUNITY CENTRE
Sir,—In Saturday morning's issue of The Colonist there appears a letter signed by Gerald Ward, calling the attention of people living in Lake Hill district, known as a community centre, to the need of a hall for the playing of basketball.

It was brought to my attention this morning with a plea that I would help them to obtain this said hall for one hour, one night, weekly. Here is the gist of the situation. We have a building known as Lake Hill Mission used for worship and Sunday school. The building is out of date both in convenience and situation, only in use on a monthly rental and hence we cannot change the character of the building for the purposes we need.

As superintendent of the school (but living in Victoria) I realize the value of our boys expressing themselves in a proper manner and I feel sure learning to play the games of the right kind goes hand in hand with the teaching of Christian ethics.

In this said mission I find a fine class of boys and girls, full of "pep," but courteous and well-mannered in every respect. We are trying to make the list of the names of the boys and girls who are worth while. In our teaching staff are found men and women who are doing their utmost to bring these things about. As superintendent engaged in this kind of work for over twenty-five years in Victoria, I can only voice a plea that the said committee of Lake Hill Community Centre will open negotiations and appoint one of their members as representatives to meet our boys, who have a leader in Gerald Ward, and a tutor in a man who is father of one of the boys. Remember, friends of the community, prevention is better than cure. Let the men rise and be big brothers to these and other lads and help them to play the game.

NO SUCH CHURCH
Sir,—Last Wednesday's Colonist, page 18, column 4, says in part: "Rev. J. A. D. Findlay, M.A., is expected to address a young people's gathering in Victoria on October 6."

The article incorrectly states that the Rev. J. A. D. Findlay, M.A., is a member of the United Church of Scotland. As explained by me in The Colonist of July 9, September 8, 1929, and February 2, 1930, there is no such church as the new "United Church of Scotland."

RAMSAY MacDONALD'S SPEECH TO BE HEARD TOMORROW NOT TODAY
The address of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, scheduled for today from 12:35 to 1:15 p.m. (Pacific Standard time) over WARG and the Columbia Broadcasting network, has been deferred until the same hour tomorrow.

The change in date is due to a decision to open the Imperial Conference, which the Prime Minister will address, on October 1 instead of the date originally set.

FIVE VANCOUVER MEN TO JOIN ORIENT TOUR
VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Five well-known Vancouver men have made definite reservations for the official tour of Japan and China under auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. It was announced at Board of Trade headquarters today. It is possible that there may be additions to the Vancouver party.

The local men going to the Orient, leaving by the Empress of Russia on October 12, are: Mayne D. Hamilton, vice-president of Vancouver Board of Trade and general superintendent of the Canadian Bank of Commerce; R. H. Baird, general superintendent of the Royal Bank of Canada; H. J. Wealthy American Donates Huge Sum to Great Britain, As Mark of His Admiration

Trustees to Administer Fund in Most Helpful Way to Country

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Anglo-American cordiality was heightened today through the announcement by Stanley Baldwin of a munificent gift to Great Britain by Edward S. Harkness, New York railroad man. Rumors that the gift amounted to $10,000,000 were circulated a month ago, but Mr. Baldwin does not specify the amount. The five trustees are eminent Britons headed by Mr. Baldwin and are incorporated as the Harkness Trust. They have chosen as their secretary Thomas Jones, long secretary and adviser to successive Prime Ministers and enjoy of the confidence of all parties. This choice is important, inasmuch as Mr. Harkness gave the trustees full discretion to employ the gift in ways most helpful to Great Britain. EXPRESSES ADMIRATION The preamble to the trust touches the Britons by a generous tribute to the British effort during the war and her way of "sustaining honorably and without complaint in the years since the peace a burden which has gravely increased the difficulties of life for her people." Acknowledging the prosperity enjoyed by America and himself, Mr. Harkness wishes to express his admiration for what Great Britain has done by a gift for her more urgent needs. He hopes it will assist not only in tiding over the present time of difficulty, but in promoting her future well-being.

IS SPORTING GIFT Only those familiar with the resentment in certain sections of British opinion at the post-war assumption by America of the world financial leadership formerly enjoyed undisturbedly by Great Britain, can appreciate the tact and astuteness of the Harkness gift. It appeals to the best sporting instincts of the British race, because, of course, Great Britain by no means has retired from the race for financial and industrial leadership. On the contrary, it is offering the keenest competition to America.

The London Times, in a graceful editorial, says: "By concentrating at the most critical points of our present-day battle, the trustees may score success on a front much wider than their own. They will also be making to Mr. Harkness the only return in our power by insuring that his name shall be for ever inseparable in our annals from some definite and victorious phase of dogged struggle for British recovery."

RECALLS OTHER GIFTS The newspaper recalls that this gift follows other contributions by

TELLS HOW TO DIAL NEW AUTOMATIC PHONE

Telephone Man Explains Process—What to Do and How to Do It

Do you know how to dial? That is going to be an important question for you in a few weeks' time, when the Victoria telephone system changes overnight to the dial method of operation. The B.C. Telephone Company is busy teaching the telephone subscribers how to master the little contraption which has been put on each of the Victoria telephones. "It's simple," declare the telephone people, and then they proceed to prove it.

PROMINENT ENGINEER FOUND DEAD IN EGYPT CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29.—Sir John Griffiths, prominent engineer and governing director of the Norton Griffiths Company, public works contractor, was found dead Saturday under mysterious circumstances. While nothing has yet been issued, it was stated in reliable sources that Sir John paddled out in a surf boat from the beach at the San Stefano casino early this morning. Later it was noticed that the boat, a long way from shore, appeared to be unoccupied, and occupants of another boat, on investigation, found Sir John lying dead with a bullet wound in his temple.

William Pettridge, Novelist, Succumbs CHICHESTER, Eng., Sept. 29.—William Pettridge, novelist, died here today. He was author of "A Clever Wife," "Nine to Six," "Madame Prince," "The Amazing Years" and "Affectionate Regards." His last work was published in 1929.

HOW IT IS DONE "All the Victoria telephone numbers will be changed," he begins, "and each of the new numbers will either be an Empire or Garden—four consist of an exchange name—figure." "Supposing you want to dial Empire 8627. You dial the first letter of the exchange name, and then you dial each of the four figures. 'See,' he explains, manipulating the dial on some convenient telephone. "You stick your finger in the hole marked 'E' and pull the dial around to the right until your finger strikes the finger stop. Then take your finger out and the dial 'whirr' back to where it was in the first place."

With a slight "whirr" the dial spins back. "Then you stick your finger in the hole marked '6' and you turn the dial around to the right until your finger strikes the finger stop. Then take your finger out and the dial 'whirr' back to where it was in the first place."

"How about dialing party-line letters such as L and R or X and Y?" "There won't be any party-line letters. Party-line numbers will have an exchange name and four figures just like the individual numbers. You won't be able to distinguish a party-line number just by looking at it. But we will have party-line telephones just the same."

DISTRICT NUMBERS "What district will have Empire numbers and which Garden numbers?" "Numbers won't be assigned on the basis of where a subscriber lives. You might have an Empire number and your next-door neighbor might have a Garden number. They will be mixed up. It really makes no difference to the subscriber, and from a technical standpoint there are decided advantages."

"Why do you have to have an exchange name in front of every number. You haven't got them now." "Up to this time we have been able to serve Victoria by means of one exchange. Now the time has come when we have to have two because there is a limit to the number of telephones a single exchange can handle. We are giving each exchange a name. This is the common telephone practice. In Great Vancouver, for instance, there are fifteen different exchange names. In Victoria there will be two—Empire and Garden."

It all seems quite reasonable and simple when it is explained. Your questions fall you. "You won't have any trouble," your informant smiles encouragingly. And you feel that he is probably right.

GOVERNMENT IS NEGOTIATING ON B.C. ALLOTMENT

British Columbia to Have Special Consideration in Relief Plans

EARLY ANNOUNCEMENT EXPECTED ON SCHEME

Active negotiations concerning British Columbia's share in Federal unemployment relief are being carried on with Ottawa, and word is momentarily awaited on the full text of regulations governing the plan, it was stated by Premier Tolmie yesterday.

British Columbia's participation in the fund voted by Parliament for the purpose will not rest solely on a per capita basis, Premier Tolmie explained, as it was recognized that this province has special claim to consideration. The high rate of influx during winter months of the unemployed from Prairie Provinces, who turn towards the milder climate of the Coast, and come on the off chance of securing work, is one factor that will secure due recognition.

Settlement of the province's part of the general programme will depend on how much is allotted to British Columbia under the scheme. For its share in the programme the Government, it is understood, will secure financing by special warrant. Much, too, will depend on the part municipalities desire to play, and the amount they are able to put up towards their proportionate share of the cost of special winter work.

Negotiations are proceeding between the two Governments at this time, and definite announcement of measures to be taken by the Government is expected to come in the near future. The British Columbia Government to cope with unemployment in the province will be made shortly.

Peace Movement Among Arabian Tribes Spreads

AMMAN, Palestine, Sept. 29.—The peace movement among the Arabian tribes is spreading. A conference is to take place shortly between representatives of the Bedouins of the Nejd, the realm of Ibn Saud, and Transjordan, the domain of Emir Abdullah, in order to find a peaceful settlement of the conflicts between the neighboring tribes instead of following the thousand-year-old system of the blood feud.

The Bedouins of the Sinai Peninsula and of Southern Palestine, too, have been converted to pacifism. In a conference held in El Arish, a station of the Palestine-Egypt Railway, they decided to set up a council of Sheikhs to settle all the conflicts which may arise between the tribes of Southern Palestine and those of the Sinai. This council is to meet alternately in Palestine and in Egypt. Its members are to be appointed by representatives of the Egyptian and Palestine Governments.

Accused of Gambling

Sing, Chinese, was charged in the City Police Court yesterday with being the keeper of a gaming house in Fan Tan Alley. Nine other Chinese were also charged with being found in the place. On the request of counsel for the accused, W. C. Moresby, K.C., these charges were all adjourned until next Thursday.

Obituary

WALKER—The remains of Corporal William Walker were laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday afternoon, the funeral taking place from Haywards' B.C. Funeral Chapel at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson officiating, in the presence of a very large number of sympathizing friends, including Mrs. J. J. Taylor, representing the Veterans of France. The hymns sung were "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "Jesus,aviour, Pilot Me." Numerous beautiful floral designs covered the hearse, and the pallbearers were M. Steel, J. Dorman, R. Duncan, S. Smith, G. W. Etherington and F. Glendenning.

CAMERON—There passed away on Sunday morning at her home 712 Cook Street, Mrs. Annie Cameron, at the age of seventy-five years. Mrs. Cameron was born in Worcester, England, and had resided in this city for the past eighteen years. She was a regular fishing enthusiast, being often seen during the summer months fishing in the waters around the Saanich district.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the McCall Funeral Parlors, Rev. F. A. Ramsey will officiate.

GOODLAKE—The death occurred Sunday morning of Catherine Maud, widow of the late William Henry Garrard Goodlake, Lieutenant, R.N., who died in 1878, and daughter of the late Samuel Julian, of Crofta, County Kerry, Ireland. Mrs. Goodlake was seventy-eight years of age. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon, the cortege leaving the Sands Funeral Chapel at 1:40 o'clock and at 2 o'clock services will be conducted at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, by Canon A. E. de L. Nunns. The remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

CUTHBERT—There passed away on Saturday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, George Charles Cuthbert, aged ninety-three years, of Stelly's Crossroad, Saanich. Mr. Cuthbert was born in England and had resided in Saanich for thirty-two years. He is mourned by one daughter, Mrs. Freeland, with whom he resided. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, from McCall Bros' Funeral Home, Rev. J. S. A. Bastin will conduct the service, after which interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

WILLIS—There passed away at the Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mary Anne Willis, of the Delhi Hotel, aged eighty-five years. Mrs. Willis was born in Ireland and had no relatives in Canada. The remains are resting at McCall Bros' Funeral Home. Announcement of the time of the funeral will be made later.

YOU ARE PAYING for the NEW PACKARD EIGHT

Why not own one?

AGAIN this year the story of the new Packard Eight is not a sensational one. Packard did not reach its world leadership among fine car manufacturers by sensational means.

The story of the new Packard Eight is the sound and sensible story of a fine car made even finer. That is what Packard has been striving to do and has done each year for thirty years. But no new Packard of recent years has embodied so many refinements and improvements as this one.

Eight years of successful eight-in-line experience result in a powerplant and chassis it now seems impossible to further improve. Precision workmanship is protected by automatic lubrication. Packard designed and built bodies—beautiful with the grace of line always characteristically Packard—increased power, still better performance, still smoother and more quiet luxury of travel—these things distinguish the new car. They are worth experiencing.

But the greatest thing we offer you in a Packard is a sound conservative investment in truly fine transportation—an investment never depreciated by needless changes in design—a long-time investment in motor car satisfaction.

You are probably paying for the new Packard Eight whether you own one or not. If you drive a car of its size and power, we know you are and we can prove it. So why not own one? Operating costs are no greater for a Packard Standard Eight than for any other car of its size regardless of its list price. Depreciation on the Packard is actually less, for you like others will keep it far longer than you would any ordinary car.

Records show that Packard owners keep their cars nearly twice as long as the cars they traded in, and that the chances are nine out of ten that you, having once bought a Packard, will never buy any other make of car!

Allow us to figure your ownership cost for you without obligation. You may find that a new Packard Eight can be yours for a surprisingly small down and monthly payment. If your used car is of average value there may be no down payment necessary.

No More Piles

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and strengthens the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, and why salves and cutting fail. MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and drugists everywhere sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it cures you nothing if it doesn't end all Pile agony. (Adv.)

HOSPITAL SUED FOR UNSTATED DAMAGES

Kenneth Magnone Claims Negligence on Part of Staff of Vancouver Institution

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Claiming damages from Vancouver General Hospital and Dr. R. A. Seymour, acting general superintendent, Kenneth Magnone is plaintiff on behalf of his sixteen-month-old daughter, Nancy, in an action before Mr. Justice Murphy in Supreme Court.

According to testimony introduced by G. G. McGeer, K.C., and James Wilson, counsel for Mr. Magnone, Nancy Magnone was severely scalded November 8, 1929, and was taken to the children's section of Vancouver General Hospital for treatment. On February 6, 1930, the child was sent home from the hospital and the same evening her mother noticed irritation and other symptoms.

Nancy was taken back to the hospital for diagnosis on February 13 and returned for treatment on February 21. Mr. Magnone claims carelessness, inefficiency and negligence on the part of the hospital staff. J. W. DeB. Farris, K.C., and J. G. Gibson are counsel for the hospital. Further evidence will be heard in Supreme Court at 11 a.m. tomorrow by a jury of eight men.

REPUBLICANS HOLD MEETING IN SPAIN

Many Thousands Attend Anti-Monarchist Rally in Madrid—Was Big Demonstration

MADRID, Sept. 29.—Republicans of Spain were roused today to greater efforts to end the monarchy as fiery appeals of their leaders here Sunday echoed throughout the land. Twenty thousand persons, ten thousand of them from without the city, jammed into old bull ring in a meeting made possible only a few days ago with lifting of censorship and of a ban on free speech. They heard the chiefs of the movement attack the monarchy and espouse a republic.

Delegations from every part of Spain were present, those of them carrying banners. The red, yellow and purple Republican colors were prominently displayed. Ominously, yet unused, muzzles of machine guns poked from vantage places commanding the crowd.

Civic guards and police watched over the assembly but were not called upon for more than ordinary police duty. When the meeting was over the crowd dispersed without incident.

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto, Canadian flyweight champion, outpointed Malcolm Mathewson, also of Toronto, in a ten-round bout here tonight.

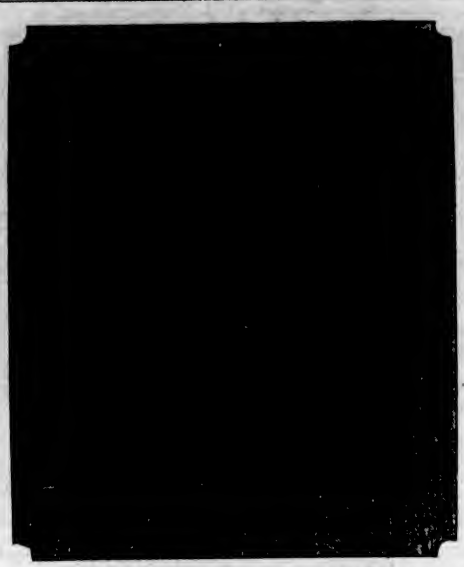

Belanger, returning to the ring after a long lay off, weighed 118 1/2. Mathewson 115 1/2. Marty Gold, Philadelphia flyweight, easily outpointed Tommy McBeigh, of Vancouver, in ten rounds. Gold weighed 114 1/2, McBeigh 115 1/2.

RARE SCENE ENACTED IN JEWISH QUARTER

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The Jewish Telegraph Agency reports that the centre of the Paris Jewish quarter, the Carreau du Temple, was the scene today of a anti-semitic incident rare in Paris.

Six members of the Royalist League "Camelots du Roi" ran through the streets shouting "Down with the Jews," and distributing among passersby copies of "L'Action Française," the Royalist organ. During a scuffle that followed one of the Royalists was knocked down and the others fled.

Juvenile Branch Of Musical Arts Club Is Formed

The first meeting of the Juvenile branch of the Victoria Musical Arts Club will be held at the home of Mrs. J. O. Cameron, 1085 Moss Street, on Saturday, October 4, at 2:30 p.m.

The Juvenile branch has been formed this season as the result of last year's meeting in connection with the Junior Music Club. This proved so popular that it was found advisable to divide the club, and Juvenile members up to fifteen years of age are accepted. Piano, violin, singing, elocution, and solo dancing will be encouraged in this portion, and the whole-hearted support of parents and music teachers is sought in order to make the undertaking a success.

NIGHT FOOTBALL TO BE PLAYED AT VANCOUVER PARK

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Soccer footballers, following the lead of the Rugby footballers, will play night games at Athletic Park this fall under the flood lights. First of the games to be played after dusk will be staged Wednesday night, according to an announcement made today by soccer officials.

Thistles and Wallabies, first division squads of the Vancouver and District Football League, will clash in a league game. This will be the first soccer football game ever played under the arc lights in Canada. If the venture proves successful the schedule will be revamped to include night games.

Workmen Are Using New Kind of Coal

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 29.—Workmen of the city engineer's department are using a new kind of coal these days—coal that they found while digging for a sewer connection near Ball Street.

Chips from the seam of black rock formation they discovered eleven feet below the road's surface. Burns, workman claim, and Frank Graham, assistant city engineer, tried it out in the furnace of a downtown building and found the same thing.

The seam is about six inches wide. It is felt that the seam if followed, may reveal a deposit richer in actual coal content.

TOM HEENEY DEFEATED

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 29.—Frankie Cawley, Pittston, Penn. heavyweight, outpointed Tom Heeny, New Zealand heavyweight, in a ten-round bout here tonight. Cawley weighed 192, Heeny 206.

City & District

Appointed Registrar—George McAndrew, of North Bend, is appointed a marriage commissioner and district registrar of vital statistics, by order-in-council passed by the Government this week.

Makes Inspection—W. F. Kennedy, member of the Liquor Control Board, is making a tour of northern parts of the province, inspecting liquor stores operated under the board. He will be absent from the city two weeks.

Inquiry to Resume—Inquiry before Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in the Norman Watt investigation, which adjourned at Prince Rupert recently, will resume at the courthouse here on Thursday, when, it is understood, the proceedings will be completed.

Rags to Riches—Rags, wire-haired terrier, who for many years was an almost steady visitor in The Colonist office and perhaps one of the best-known dogs in the city, is no more. He was run over and killed by an automobile on Saturday night.

Member for Mackenzie—Michael Manson, member in the Provincial Legislature for the Mackenzie riding, arrived in the city yesterday from Stagg Bay. Mr. Manson called on members of the Government after registering at the Dominion Hotel for a brief stay.

U.S. Foresters Coming—Twenty-five members of state forestry organizations from across the border will pay a visit to Victoria Saturday, when they will be entertained by officials of the British Columbia forestry branch of the Department of Lands. Constant interchange of ideas on mutual problems has existed between the two services for some time, and is enhanced by personal contacts.

New Apartment—City Building Inspector James Barf yesterday issued a building permit to Messrs. Carmichael and Leeming for the construction of a four-family apartment house at 1041 Fairfield Road. The apartment is to be of two stories of frame and stucco and will contain four three-room suites. The building is to cost $9,000, and the work will be done by the Victoria Realty Co.

Esquimalt Roads—Following the program suggested for road construction work by the Esquimalt Council, C. H. Dickie, M.P., has written the council explaining that its request for a grant for this purpose has been referred to Hon. H. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works. A letter from Mr. Stewart was read at last night's meeting of the council, in which he stated that the request had been referred to the Minister of Labor. Both letters were received and filed by the council.

Addressee Carpenters—W. West, member of the Vancouver Labor Council and a member of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, paid a flying visit to the city yesterday, and, after addressing about forty local carpenters on the advisability of forming a Victoria local, left last night for the Mainland. He will return again in two weeks, when another meeting will be held. The meeting is hoped to take steps to form the Victoria body.

Sheep Landed Safely—Purchased sheep from famous flocks in England, imported by members of Vancouver Island Flockmasters' Association, and which arrived when St. Pacific president docked at Vancouver last week, suffered no harm on their long voyage from the United Kingdom through the Panama Canal. It was learned here yesterday. They passed the period of quarantine on board ship, and were granted landing certificates on arrival at the Mainland, for reshipment to farms on Vancouver Island.

Tax Collections Heavy—Taxpayers of Victoria, anxious to avoid surcharges on arrears of taxes, thronged the office of the city treasurer yesterday to make payment before the surcharge amount goes into effect October 1. Today is the last day on which taxes may be paid without an addition of 4 per cent. The 4 per cent period remains in effect until October 15 and on all taxes remaining unpaid at that date an additional 4 per cent will be added, making 8 per cent on all taxes unpaid at October 15.

First Test—The first attempt to be made on a large scale toward fulfilling the idea of Empire broadcasting was on November 11, 1927, when His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales at the B.B.C.'s present service to English listeners, and the night hours may be taken up by records. Later these programmes will be elaborated on until certain sections of the Empire will be given special programmes, on which all other points may tune in.

BRITANNIA BRANCH WILL HOLD INITIAL SMOKER ON OCT. 4

The initial Winter smoker of the season will be held at the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Saturday night at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to attend and bring their friends.

Since moving into its new quarters the club has made great progress, and credit is due to Comrade Jack Blair, chairman of the house committee; Comrade H. Thompson, chairman of the finance committee; and Comrade Dave Sheret, chairman of the ways and means committee. Much praise is given to President Thomas Dempster, who has worked untiringly during the past twelve months to put the club in the position it is today.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, a general executive meeting will be held at a difficult headquarters, View Street. All members are asked to attend as several important items are on the agenda.

Italy Will Take Part In Regina Grain Show

REGINA, Sept. 29.—The Consul here representing the Italian Minister of foreign affairs of Italy, has been advised that Italy intends to participate in the world's grain exhibition and conference to be held at Regina in 1932.

With the entry of Italy into the world's grain exhibition and conference of 1932, nine countries have now officially accepted the invitation to take part, as follows: Peru, Yugoslavia, Guatemala, New Zealand, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands, Poland, Belgium, and Italy.

AMERICANS TO GIVE MARBLE FOUNTAIN TO MCGILL UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A gesture indicative of the friendship of the United States towards Canada will be made on November 1 at Montreal, when a marble fountain, designed by Gertrude V. Whitney, will be presented to McGill University by a United States committee of good will to Canada.

Dr. John H. Finley, of The New York Times, and a member of the United States committee, will make the presentation address, and His Excellency Lord Willingdon, Governor-General, will in turn present the fountain to the university through its chancellor, E. W. Beatty, K.C., and its principal and vice-chancellor, Sir Arthur Currie.

DISCOVERY OF BROKEN BOTTLE SENDS ALBERTA MAN TO PENITENTIARY

EDMONTON, Sept. 29.—A fragment of bone broken from the button of an overcoat, found at the scene of a safe blowing at St. Albert, near here, last May, resulted in the conviction and sentence of Joseph Barber, alias Barbero, to five years in Prince Albert penitentiary, when he appeared before Mr. Justice Ives in Supreme Criminal Court here this morning.

The little section of bone formed the clue which definitely linked Barber with the burglary and was the basis of the case of the Crown against Barber.

Detectives of the Alberta Provincial Police told of inspecting the scene of the burglary and of finding the broken button beside the wrecked safe. Barber was later arrested in Calgary. In an automobile used in his wanderings over Alberta was a broken button. The piece of button found at the scene of the safe blowing fitted exactly with that of the coat.

TALKING PICTURE IS BANNED IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—Because it is alleged to present an unfavorable picture of the Royal Air Force, the talking motion picture "Hell's Angels," has been banned by the Ontario Board of Censors. Major J. C. Boyd, chairman of the board, said the producers had declined to consider the board's request for elimination of certain scenes which cast a reflection on the personnel of the force, and therefore the board was unable to approve the picture.

EMPLOYING CANADIANS

SUDBURY, Sept. 29.—Practically all bushmen being taken on in the lumber camps in Northern Ontario this winter are native-born Canadians according to the local branch of the Employment Service of Canada. Bush operations this season will be greatly curtailed, and for the first time in years operators are able to pick and choose their men.

Lumber companies are not actuated in this policy of employing only Canadians by sentimental reasons but by purely hard-headed business considerations. The native-born Canadian, English or French, is

Screen Star Leaves

$100,000 to Widow

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—Milton Sills, film star, who died of heart disease September 16, bequeathed his estate, valued at $100,000, to his widow, Doris Kayson Sills, filing of the will for probate in Superior Court revealed today.

The document specified a $300,000 trust fund settled by the actor upon his first wife, Gladys G. Wynn Sills, at the time of their divorce five years ago, should remain intact. Likewise he provided for the perpetuation of a $100,000 trust fund established for his daughter, Dorothy.

While a youth was applying for a marriage license at Croydon, England, recently, his mother appeared and protested that while she had seventeen children she could not agree to "this boy of mine getting married on the sly."

Varied Activities of Women

Autumn's Fashions

Important Details Which Cannot Be Overlooked in This Season's Gowns—Coats Vary and Are Without Capes

Some 200 new styles have lately been exhibited by Madeleine Vionnet, says an article in The Times (London). She maintains her usual less shoulders, decorative openwork, and pointed incrustations and seams. She sets the waistline at the natural place, where many of the circular skirts have a slight fullness. Morning and early afternoon dresses reach to within a foot or so of the ground; late afternoon dresses and Sunday evening dresses are longer; and full evening dresses are quite long and sometimes have trains.

BELTS AND NECKLINES

Vionnet's flounces, pleats and plisse draperies are of soft, supple, silken and woolen materials in unusual primary shades and in white, brown and grey. Easy-fitting bodices are draped or buttoned; the long sleeves fall wide about the wrists. Necklines are pointed, crooked and draped with soft scarves cut on the cross; but whether wide or narrow, the scarf is always wide enough to tie in a bow with long ends, in front near the waistline or at the side near the shoulder. This is a pretty fashion. On dresses and coats are narrow belts of kid, suede or the dress material. A narrow, bright belt on a light or dark dress, with buttons to match it, is an unpretentious relief. Silk belts to match dresses may be knotted in the middle and drawn to a bow or buckle in front. Again, a belt may be of colored beads, or partly of beads and partly of kid or suede. A colored belt on a pale pastel pink, grey, blue or yellow frock may be matched with a chiffon handkerchief.

FOR EVENING

Evening dresses are of chiffon and georgette or soft velvet or light-colored chiffon worked perhaps in beads or sequins. There is no lace. There are simple morning and afternoon woollens and silk crepes; among the colors are pale blue, pale rose, Isabelle white, black for velvet or satin, faded leaf brown and pale grey. A pale brown chiffon frock is worn with amber beads; with a pale grey silk crepe go a narrow scarlet belt of suede and crystal buttons; a beige georgette dress is worn with a brown velvet wrap coat lined with beige and trimmed with beige fur. Long coats and wraps are cut in two or three ways. A cloth or tweed coat is belted at the waist and is full enough to be well folded across the front; it has no cape, and the sleeves are wide, and seamless on the shoulder. In velvet, short-haired fur, or satin the shape is dolman, and may be draped in soft folds; the collar is a trailing scarf, or of wide, soft fur. There is much fine, needing, drawthread work, fagoting of seams, and so on. Simple as they look, Vionnet clothes are elaborate, since they are exquisitely worked by hand.

NEW COLORS

Red dresses are worn under black cloth coats trimmed with astrakhan; light brown woolen dresses have coats trimmed with beaver; beige skirts have cream tops, and dark brown coats are trimmed with beige fur. Navy blue is worn with white black and white, brown and cream, tangerine red and brown grey and scarlet, as in a dress of grey chiffon worn with scarlet flowers. Wraps trimmed with ermine and lined with ivory satin match black panne evening dresses with deep flounces. The front of an Isabelle white satin dress is drawn to a point from which two narrow bands cut on the cross are carried over the shoulders and down to the waist, where they meet into a bow or knot. There are no capes. Plain materials are more usual than figured. Wide bands of fur are put on the hems of one or two evening dresses. A silver belt trims a white satin evening dress.

TRANSFERS PRINTED ON CARDS

To stop frauds in issuing transfers, conductors of Berlin are being equipped with machines which print the transfer slips while passengers watch. The machine is slung around the conductor's neck. With one hand he sets it for the correct slip. With the other hand he turns a crank which prints the transfer on a continuous roll. The machine keeps a register of all transfers, which is inspected by auditors.

Blouses Are in Vogue This Season

THE designs of the new blouses are as varied as the fabrics they are made of—chiffon, the new thin metals, heavy sheer crepe, crepe satin and Canton crepe are some of the outstanding materials. There is tie over the skirt of suits with shorter jackets. Lucien Lelong is the creator of the blouse shown on the upper left in the Vogue sketch. It is of white satin and has the new Raglan-cut sleeves. The triangular section in the front of the blouse itself, except at the point of the décolletage, and it drapes, Mirande of white crepe moiré. Maggy Rouff made the third blouse of white-dotted brown silk crepe. It has the important one-sided cut of the season. The photograph at the right, above, is of a charming model for the very young girl. It is of red cloth, trimmed with rick-rack braid, the design of Lion, Paris. Sketch is by Vogue.

ESQUIMALT COWS ARE SUBJECT OF DISPUTE

Bucolic Problem Faces Municipal Council Following Reading of Two Petitions

"Why are you so hard on the cows?" was one of the questions which the Reeve and Municipal Council of Esquimalt were called upon to answer when the question of the continuance of grazing grounds within the municipality was brought up at the regular meeting of the Council.

A delegation of over a dozen men and women attended the meeting, and petitions were read dealing with the matter. One of these came from C. L. Tiffin and was endorsed by thirty-six names. It requested that there should be a discontinuance of the use of land between Elery and Colville Streets for grazing purposes. A further petition, with fifty-three signatures appended, asked that the grazing rights should be continued.

It appeared that the grazing belonged to W. Stephenson, who attended last night's meeting, and who, with Mrs. Stephenson, maintained that Mr. Tiffin had misstated the facts of the case and had suggested to householder that the property in question might be used as a public park.

Reeve Elrick interposed that the matter was not one of the value of the land. It would be absurd to suppose that money would be voted for its conversion into a municipal park.

It was pointed out to the council that there were a certain number of people who had apparently signed the two petitions, in view of which fact Councilor Cox moved that they be received and filed.

In view of the fact, however, that Dr. J. S. McCallum, municipal health officer, submitted a report which enclosed a copy of a letter sent to Mr. Stephenson stating that his milk licence would be suspended today if he refused to reduce his herd to five head, Councilor Cox withdrew his motion.

NO JURISDICTION Councilor Lockey pointed out that, provided the by-law was complied with the council had no jurisdiction in the matter, except where the health officer or the police had submitted adverse reports.

Reeve Elrick stated that it was manifestly unfair to deal with the case of one man. There were, in all probability, other cases in the municipality equally in need of attention.

Dr. McCallum having offered to withdraw his report upon the case of Mr. Stephenson for the time being, the health committee, con-

GERMAN ARMY LEADER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Prince Leopold of Bavaria Passes Away at Age of Eighty-Four Years

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Prince Leopold of Bavaria, field marshal of Germany and commander of the German army in the East during the earlier stages of the war, died yesterday. He was eighty-four years old. Death was caused by pneumonia. The prince played an important part in the early German victories in Russia and Poland, leading the army that captured Warsaw in 1915. He was an uncle of ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. After his soldiers occupied Warsaw, he later was appointed commander-in-chief of the German Eastern army, succeeding the then General von Hindenburg, who was made chief of the general staff.

CABINET CONTINUES TO PLAN ALLOCATION OF RELIEF APPROPRIATION

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Further consideration was given by the Cabinet this evening to the allocation of the $20,000,000 appropriation for unemployment. The meeting lasted over three hours, but no announcement was made at its conclusion. Another meeting will take place tomorrow afternoon.

In addition to discussing the disposition of the unemployment fund, it is understood the ministers gave some further consideration to filling posts in connection with the Pensioners Appeal Court and the pensions tribunals. An announcement with respect to these may be expected in the near future.

VANCOUVER COUNCIL DELEGATION TO MEET PREMIER THIS WEEK

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—A delegation from the city council will visit Victoria this week to arrange with Premier S. F. Tolmie for the city's share of Federal assistance toward dealing with the relief and unemployment problem.

This was announced by Mayor W. H. Malkin today. Relief Officer H. W. Cooper presented to the relief committee meeting this afternoon detailed information on the possible requirements of the city for the remainder of the winter season.

ONTARIO TOBACCO CROP

SIMCOE, Ont., Sept. 29.—In spite of lack of rain when it was most needed and of the hailstorm which wrought heavy damage in the centre of the tobacco district, Norfolk's crop of flue-cured tobacco this year will bring a return to the growers of between two and three million dollars, according to prices received. At that, the yield is not expected to exceed that of 1929, even though about 15,000 acres were under tobacco this year, as compared with 10,000 last year.

CORNS

SAFE INSTANT RELIEF Not the slightest feeling of discomfort remains one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. Their soothing, healing medication instantly quiets the worst corn, while their cushioning, protective features remove the cause—shoe pressure. Don't cut your corns—it invites blood-poisoning! And harsh liquids and plasters expose the toes to acid burns. Zino-pads are guaranteed safe and sure for corns, soft corns, and tender toes. Thin, small, dainty. At Drug, Shoe and Dept. Stores—35c.

Shot from Guns

125 million explosions in every grain break open every food cell... give Puffed Grains the virtual nourishment of hot cooked cereals.

WHAT makes Puffed Grains so crisp... light and crunchy... so delicious to eat? They're different from all other cereals because they're "shot" from guns. Plump, meaty grains of wheat and rice are sealed in huge bronze guns. The guns are revolved in fiery ovens. Then fired.

This causes 125 million explosions in every grain. It breaks open every tiny food cell. Thus Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice become as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. Hence virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals.

In addition, the grains are puffed to 8 times normal size. They have all the buttery crunchiness of fresh toast. They taste like sweet new nut-meats.

Delight your family with this splendid grain nourishment in this dainty, enticing form. Serve Puffed Grains for breakfast. As lunches for children. Toast them with butter to make a delicious, new kind of popcorn. Your grocer has Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. The Quaker Oats Company.

Lake Hill Institute Has Birthday

Lake Hill Women's Institute celebrated its coming-of-age yesterday afternoon in the Community Hall when about two hundred guests, including members of the various Women's Institutes of the south end of Vancouver Island, were present to join in the festivities. Members of Lake Hill Institute, attired in the gowns of 1909, the birthday year, took part in a presentation of the inaugural meeting. Mrs. Webster impersonating Miss Laura Rose, who was sent by the Department of Agriculture in that year to interest women of Lake Hill in organizing an institute. Mrs. S. F. Tolmie arrived in time to see the president as she was twenty-one years ago. Mrs. McLachlan, superintendent of Women's Institutes for British Columbia, gave an account of the progress made by the movement since 1909, and in conclusion presented Mrs. Service with an illuminated address as a memento and in recognition of being a charter member and member of longest standing in any institute in the province. Mrs. Scott presented the institute with a beautiful bouquet. Mrs. Tolmie told of the first meeting and the members who had been present on that occasion. Congratulations were received from the following institutes: West Saanich, Happy Valley, Esquimalt, South Saanich, Strawberry Vale, Langford and Victoria, and a letter of congratulation was received from Mrs. McVicker, of Metchemin W.I., enclosing a photograph of Miss Rose, the pioneer organizer for British Columbia.

Weddings

EVANS—BARTHOLOMEW

A quiet house wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock when Rev. C. T. Scott united in marriage Muriel Hilda, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bartholomew, Oliphant Street, and Mr. Ernest Albert Evans, only son of Mr. Joseph Evans, Clare Street, and of the late Mrs. Evans. The ceremony took place at the parsonage of the Metropolitan United Church, 916 Johnson Street. Owing to the illness of her father, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Victor Bartholomew, and the best man was her youngest brother, Mr. Fred Bartholomew.

The bride looked charming in a Pastorian model frock of rose beige lace made with a long-sleeved coat and a long full skirt and finished at the natural waistline with a beautiful rhinestone buckle. She wore a moiré hat to match her frock with a deep tulle brim which was trimmed with folds of pastel ribbon which were threaded through the brim. She carried a shower bouquet of pink bridal roses and madonhair fern tied with white satin ribbon.

The service was followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents, where Mr. and Mrs. Evans were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Bartholomew in a smart gown of cinnamon georgette and hat to match. The refreshment table was arranged with vases of pink flowers and tall pink candles, and on it was placed the three-tier cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans left later for a wedding trip to Southern California, and on their return will make their home on Clare Street.

Service Club Meets

SIDNEY, Sept. 29.—The regular weekly meeting of the North Saanich Service Club was held in the clubrooms, School Crossroad, on Saturday evening. Ten tables of five hundred were in play, the prizes being won by Mrs. Tuttle, after cutting, from Mrs. J. B. Readings, and Mr. Enoch, after cutting, from Mr. C. Sansbury. After refreshments had been served an enjoyable dance was held, the music being supplied by Miss Annie Lorenzen and Mr. E. Wilson.

BISHOP SPEAKS IN OWN PULPIT

Rt. Rev. C. V. Schofield
Preaches at Christ Church
Cathedral Again

VISITING BISHOP HEARD

The eight-day dedication festival, marking the first anniversary of the consecration of the new Christ Church Cathedral, began on Sunday with special services, which attracted big congregations and gave parishioners an opportunity of hearing Rt. Rev. C. V. Schofield for the first time since his return from Europe.

Bishop Schofield was the preacher at the 11 o'clock service in the morning, and Bishop Huston, Bishop of Olympia, at Evensong. Bishop Schofield's text was from Ezekiel ii. v. 16: "Yet will I be to them a little sanctuary." In excellent voice and with vigor apparently renewed as the result of his several months' holiday, the bishop said that the historical significance of the text lay in the fact that the Jews were exiles in the land of Babylon, far from their sacred city, Jerusalem, and so God's presence in the absence of their temple became to them a little sanctuary.

The cathedral congregation, unlike those Jews, had built its beautiful sanctuary. But God was not consigned to its walls, but could be to them a little sanctuary in the home, in work and in daily life. He had been in many English cathedrals of late, but although they had put on new life and vigor, when compared with the cathedral in Victoria, they seemed too dark and mysterious. Here, upon his return, he had been struck anew by a brightness and beauty which was most cheering. He desired to thank Almighty God, on behalf of Mrs. Schofield and himself, for many journeying mercies and a safe return.

In conclusion, Bishop Schofield appealed to the cathedral congregation to be thankful for many blessings which they had received in their beautiful sanctuary and to dedicate themselves afresh to the service of God through its witness and worship.

VISITING BISHOP

In the evening the Bishop of Olympia chose as his text St. Mark vii. v. 35: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" The preacher, who occupied the pulpit of Christ Church Cathedral for the first time, pointed out that Christ was a consummate artist with His eye ever on quality rather than quantity. One man's personality was worth, in His scale of values, more than all the sins and starts. There was a danger nowadays on this American continent of exaggerating the importance of numbers and bigness. Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, was a protest against such materialism.

SPECIAL MUSIC

One of the particularly beautiful musical features of the day's celebration was the singing by the choir of a beautiful anthem, a motet by Dr. Stanford, "Glorious and Powerful God."

At the 11 o'clock service there was a celebration of choral communion, the Very Rev. Dean Quinlan being the celebrant. In the evening Evensong was intoned by Rev. E. W. P. Carter, and other clergy who assisted in the day's services were Rev. P. A. Ramsey and Rev. M. A. Acheson-Lyle.

The festival will continue all week and up to and including Sunday, October 5. Yesterday morning at 9.30, morning prayer was said, and Evensong with a short address took place at 5.15. Holy Communion will be celebrated this morning at 8 o'clock and again at the same hour each morning for the remainder of the week. Tomorrow evening at 8 Evensong and diocesan choir festival will take place.

MERCHANT ROUTS ARMED BANDITS

Prevents Robbery by Hurling
Hand Axe and Stool at Gunmen

ESCAPE MADE IN AUTO

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Faced by two armed bandits in his store at Twenty-Ninth Avenue and Joyce Road at 8.20 Saturday evening, D. Gough turned an attempted holdup into a complete rout when, acting on the theory that a strong offence is the best defence, he swung into action with a hand axe and stool. After one of the gunmen had escaped injury, if not death, by the few inches which separated him from a hurling hand axe only to run into a flying stool, the thugs staged an undignified retreat, making a successful getaway in a car they had parked outside.

ORDER CIGARETTES

Gough told police the two men entered the store, one standing by the door while the other came to the counter and ordered a packet of cigarettes.

Giving the supposed purchaser the cigarettes, he received a bill in payment and a second later looked down the barrel of a revolver. The man by the door also drew a gun. Before the command to "stick 'em up" could be given Gough had reached for a hand axe nearby and let it fly at the man closest to him.

NOT A LITTLE ENOUGH
The bandit ducked, but was not agile enough to escape a stool that followed the hand axe. The stool caught the bandit on the shoulder and dropped him. He scrambled to his feet, however, and managed to escape with his companion. Both jumped into their auto, parked outside, and drove rapidly away.

ATHLETICS CARDS READY FOR BIG SERIES

Billy Townsend Gets Verdict Over Divodi In Ten-Round Battle

Vancouver Boy Credited With Edge in Seven Rounds in Bout With New Yorker—Crowd Disagrees With Verdict—Del Wolfe Wins Semi-Final

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29.—Billy Townsend, Vancouver welter, tonight won a ten-round decision over Andy Divodi, of New York, in the main feature of a boxing programme here. They fought at 145 pounds.

Townsend appeared to have the better of at least seven of the ten rounds, but a large portion of the crowd disagreed with the verdict. The Vancouver battler was the aggressor throughout, showing at his best in the fourth and seventh rounds. In the fourth he connected with a well-timed right cross, and appeared to have Divodi on the run. He failed to follow up his advantage, however, and the New York welter weathered the temporary storm and came back for the fifth round as fresh as ever. In the seventh Townsend got the better of a slugging bee, but once again failed to follow up his advantage. He tried hard in the last two sessions to get over real damaging blows, but the experienced Divodi kept out of danger, meanwhile scoring a lot of points on his useful jabbing tactics.

DEL WOLFE WINS

The six-round semi-final saw Del Wolfe, Bellingham heavyweight, outpoint George Richard, of Winnipeg. Wolfe, with an edge in poundage over his Canadian rival, hit too hard and too often for the Winnipegger, who speed failed to get him anywhere against Wolfe.

In the other bout, all four-rounders Allan Foster, Vancouver, outpointed George Alsworth, also of Vancouver; Gordon Wallace, Vancouver welter, outpointed Jimmy Pomeroy, Yakima; and Harry Marshall, Vancouver featherweight, was given the call over Johnny McDonald, another Vancouverite.

MAJOR LEAGUE BALL SCHEDULE COMES TO END

Babe Ruth Pitches Yanks to Victory in Final Game Against Red Sox

CARDINALS FLASH NEW PITCHING AGE

A final fling at the Sunday "Gate," a final settlement of third and fourth places, in the National League, standing, a few oddities and fewer outstanding playing performances brought the 1930 major league season to a close in the line-up of the two big leagues was in doubt as the teams went out for their final games yesterday and the New York Giants decided that, by defeating the Phillies, 7 to 6, in a ten-inning struggle to hold third place in the National by a one-game margin over the erstwhile league leaders from Brooklyn.

Robins did their best to gain the possible tie, handing the Boston Braves a final 6 to 3 defeat as Hollis Thurston gave eight hits and drove in four runs with three of Brooklyn's 15 hits, including the only home run of the game.

The champion St. Louis Cardinals flashed a new pitching star to take their final game from Pittsburgh Pirates by 3 to 1. Jack "Dixie" Dean, recently of the Western and Texas leagues, led the Pirates to three hits and shut them out after his first major league inning.

RUTH IN WORK

New York Yankees brought forth an old-timer of the hurling ranks. None other than Babe Ruth himself, and won a 9 to 3 decision from Boston Red Sox. The Babe had not pitched a full game in nine years, but did it in his old time yesterday, giving only two hits in the first five innings.

Shugging was more in order for the remaining games. Chicago Cubs came back to beat Cincinnati 13 to 11 after the Reds had scored nine runs in the second inning. Washington's second place team scored six times in the fifth to defeat Philadelphia's American League champions, 9 to 4.

St. Louis and Cleveland divided a wild hitting double-header, the Browns collecting seventeen hits as they won the first game, 11 to 6, and the Indians unleashing a twenty-hit attack to capture the second, 15 to 5. Chicago's White Sox did likewise, hitting safely fifteen times through a defeated Detroit 10 to 7 through a strong finish.

DICK BURNETT WINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Checks In With Lowest Net Total to Capture "Our Own Brand" Cup at Uplands Golf Club

Dick Burnett captured "Our Own Brand" cup in the annual United Commercial Travelers' golf tournament held Saturday at the Uplands, when he checked home with the lowest net score of the day. Burnett played consistent golf throughout and well deserved his victory over the classy field.

Bob Schwengers was runner-up, while Boes Johnson and Les Eastman followed in third and fourth places respectively. Harold Brynjolsson, Uplands and City champion, lived up to his reputation by touring the links in the remarkable total of 71, the lowest gross of the day.

Nelson Goodwin had the highest gross score, while Frank Livingston won the hidden-hole competition. Bill Hayward turned in the best card of the thirty-six handicap class to win a special award.

The winners were presented with their prizes following the tourney at the annual banquet held at the clubhouse.

TUFFY GRIFFITHS SCORES KNOCKOUT IN SECOND ROUND

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Iowa, heavyweight, knocked out Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, Penn., in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. Griffiths weighed 186½, Rocco 187½.

U.S. Amateur Golf Tournament Drew Gate of $55,670

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The gate receipts for the national amateur golf championship tournament, played last week at Merion Cricket Club and won by Bobby Jones, were $55,670. It was announced today. This sets a new record for the event and surpasses the total for the United States open this year at Interlachen.

EIGHT NEW BALL MARKS ESTABLISHED

Only Two Individual Champions Retain Titles in Big Leagues

KLEIN AND WILSON HAVE BIG SEASON

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Only two individual champions in the major leagues have retained their titles in the season just ended.

Babe Ruth, although unable to remain home king of all baseball, continued to lead the American League, compiling an average of .340, improving his 1929 mark by three.

Kiki Cuyler, fleet Chicagoan, continued to steal more bases than any other National Leaguer, pilfering the 1929 title with a .398 mark. He did this with a .398 mark. He did this with a .398 mark.

Bill Terry, of New York, became the leading batsman of the National League, compiling an average of .401, although he was not able to pass the total of 254 hits made by Frank O'Doul, of Philadelphia, in winning the 1929 title with a .398 mark. He did this with a .398 mark.

KLEIN AND WILSON HAVE BIG SEASON

Chuck Klein, of Philadelphia, and Hack Wilson, of Chicago, led in the individual record-smashing. Klein scored 158 runs, hit 59 doubles and made his blows good for a total of 453 bases.

Wilson led in the total bases category, passing the totals of 156 and 52, made last year by Rogers Hornsby, of Chicago, and Johnny Frederick, of Brooklyn, over 450 total bases made by Hornsby a few years before.

Wilson led hardly a fragment of the league home run record as he hit 56 to best the mark of 43 set by Klein in 1929, and in doing this he established an all-time major league mark of 190 runs batted in.

Charles Gehringer, of Detroit, who swept American League honors in 1929, came to the end of his career without a title. Last season, Gehringer led in runs with 131; in triples with 19 and in stolen bases with 27, and was in the top three in the batting average, with .345, behind Klein and Wilson.

The Athletics went to bat 5,986 times, and the Yankees scored 1,069 runs and had 980 batted in. Both Yankee marks broke major league marks of 982 and 933 set by the champion Chicago Cubs of 1929. The Cardinals had one slugging record to their credit. They hit 367 doubles, passing a major league record of 355 set by Cleveland in 1921.

AL SIMMONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Semi-official averages today reveal Al Simmons of the Athletics won the 1930 American League batting championship from Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, by two points.

The averages are official up to September 21, from September 22 to 28, inclusive, the last week of the season, they were unofficial.

This is how the semi-official averages show the finish of the race between the two leading hitters of the league:

G. A. B. H. Pts.
Simmons 138 554 211 381
Gehrig 154 581 220 379

The averages show Carl Reynolds of the White Sox and Babe Ruth of the Yankees tied for third place with .336, with Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics next, one point away.

TRUNDLERS TO FORM LEAGUES THIS WEEK

Six Loops Will Be Organized for Competition During Winter at Olympic Recreations

Olympic Recreations promises to be a very popular and interesting centre of activity during the winter months, judging by the rapidly with which the various new bowling leagues are being organized. Several leagues have already been formed and reserved alleys.

A satisfactory league can be organized with four or more teams. Five players constitute a squad and a league match requires about an hour and three-quarters. Alleys may be reserved at any time during the day and in the evenings from 6 o'clock to 9.

The following meetings will be held this week at Ken's Bowling Store, 641 Yates Street, at 8 o'clock in the evening: Tuesday, Spencer's House League; Wednesday, Service Club; Thursday, Women's Commercial Fivepin League; Friday, Olympic Tenpins; Saturday, Olympic Senior Tenpins.

OLD COUNTRY FOOTBALL

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Luton Town defeated Exeter City by 3 goals to 1 in a Southern League soccer football match today. The teams played at Luton.

Rugby matches played today resulted as follows:

Abercromby 3, Cross Keys 17.
Pontypool 3, Newport 4.

Jumbo Davies Will Battle Johnny McDonald Here

Flashy Local Boy Will Swap Punches With Vancouver Fighter at Variety Theatre in Ten-Round Main Event—Good Card Lined Up

Jumbo Davies, Victoria's "Blonde Terror," who has been climbing the fistic ladder with great rapidity, will tackle one of the toughest boys of his career here Saturday night when he steps through the ropes to swap punches with Johnny McDonald, series Vancouver featherweight, in the ten-round main event on Promoter Joe Bayley's card at the Variety Theatre.

Bayley has lined up one of the best cards of recent years. In the semi-wind-up he has matched Wing Hay, the fighting Chinaman, with Frankie Neil, Prince Rupert, over the four-round route. Both boys are fast, good mixers and are hounds for punishment.

White Sox and Cubs Will Meet For City Title

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Rogers Hornsby's Cubs have finished the National League season with a perfect record—four straight victories over Cincinnati since the Rajah assumed charge of the club. Winning ninety games during the season—the number they figured would win them the pennant—qualified the Cubs for a chance to make a little extra money in a city championship series with the White Sox. The Cubs won the 1928 series, and will start defending the title Wednesday.

Of the sixteen city series played, the Sox have won ten, with the first one, back in 1903, having wound up in a 7 to 1 tie. The second place Cubs figure to be too strong for the seventh place Sox, but may not go into the affair with the earnest spirit the feature contest is expected to develop in the series-opener if Pat Madone, ace of Cubs, is pitted against Ted Lyons, the Sox great right-hander.

Black Hawks' Owners Sued For $500,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—A $500,000 echo of Chicago's hockey war of four years ago, sounded today when a jury was selected to hear the suit of Edward Livingstone, of Toronto, against Major Frederic McLaughlin, William J. Foster and John S. Keogh.

Livingstone, who owned the Chicago Cardinals, claims McLaughlin and his associates in the ownership of the Chicago Black Hawks, conspired to get Livingstone's players to jump their contracts with the Cardinals, and is suing in Federal Court for $500,000.

RIVAL CHAMPS WILL CLASH TOMORROW IN OPENING ENCOUNTER

Philadelphia Will Be Scene of First World's Series Tussle Between St. Louis Cardinals and Athletics—Gabby Street Confident Team Will Win

Burleigh Grimes Expected to Be Cards' Starting Pitcher

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, came to Philadelphia to open the world series Wednesday, but "just to play a couple of ball games."

On arrival they found that the Philadelphia Athletics too regarded the opening contest as "only a ball game" and not an epic struggle. Gabby Street, with his battered fingers bruised by the steaming slants of Walter Johnson and hundreds of other pitchers in his twenty years of catching, spoke for his Cards on their arrival at the battlefield this afternoon.

"There's nothing to get excited about," said the manager of the Cards, as a whimsical smile covered his weatherbeaten countenance.

STREET EXPECTS VICTORY

"We are here just to play a couple of ball games. We won't tighten up, and we will do our best. Of course, we think we will win, but if we don't they can't shoot us."

Connie Mack, the soft-voiced manager of the Athletics, with sixty-seven years of living behind him, fifty in the cycles of baseball, had only one worry. He was afraid his players would be taxed to the near breaking point by the demand of friends for tickets.

"This waiting for games to start is worse than the play itself," he said. "No I won't predict the outcome of the series. I know we have a good team, and the Cards must have a great one, considering their wonderful uphill fight for the pennant. That was one of the finest finishes any team ever made, and I know that a crowd that can accomplish that is capable of doing anything."

AS IN BATTING DRILL

The Athletics today took an extended batting drill, with Jack Quinn, their spitball pitcher, throwing the balls up to them. The A's expect Burleigh Grimes to be the Cards pitcher in the opening game, and Manager Street has made no secret of his intention to start the former Robin, Giant, Pirate and Brave.

After the batting drill the A's excused themselves from company and had a "secret practice," much on the order of a football team preparing for a big autumn game.

ELIGIBLE PLAYERS

The following is a list of players eligible for the forthcoming world series, with positions played:

St. Louis Cardinals—Charles Street, manager; Clyde Wares, coach; Earl Adams, third base; Herman Bell, pitcher; Ray Blades, outfield (right field); James Bottomley, first base; Taylor Douthett, centre field; George Fisher, outfield; Frank Fitch, second base; Charles Gelbert, shortstop; Albert Grabowski, pitcher; Burleigh Grimes, pitcher; Charles Hayes, outfield (left field); Jess Haines, pitcher; William Hallahan, pitcher; Andrew High, infield; Sylvester Johnson, pitcher; James Lindsey, pitcher; Gus Mancuso, pitcher; Ernest Orosz, outfield; George Pucinelli, outfield; Charles Rhem, pitcher; George Watkins, outfield (right field); James Wilson, catcher.

Eastern Shore Handicap Won By Equipoise

HAYRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 29.—The stakes of Harry Payne Whitney's Eastern Shore Handicap today at Equipoise led fifteen two-year-olds over six furlongs, with Don Leon paid $180 for 22 place ticket. The six furlongs were run in 1:12 2-5.

CHANGES MADE IN NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

Not Less Than Four Men to Be Kept on Ice During Game

MAJOR PENALTY FOR FIGHTING PLAYERS

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—Hockey teams with only three men striving to hold their ice in check until reinforcements arrive from the penalty box will be no more in the National Hockey League.

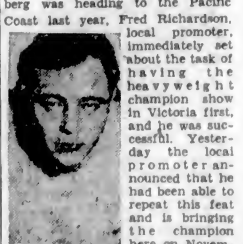

At the annual meeting of the governors Saturday, a rule was passed providing for at least four men to be kept on a team during the full game. If two men are ruled off, they leave the ice in the customary manner. A substitute is put on in place of one. The third man penalized serves his time in the penalty box starting when one or two of the first penalized players returns to the game.

Other changes in the rulings provide penalties for a player who deliberately knocks an opposing player's stick from his hands; major penalty for any player who deliberately or accidentally cuts another player across the head or face with his stick, and a major penalty for the aggressor in any fight. No penalty will be given the player who is struck unless he retaliates. In that case he will receive a minor penalty.

The governors decided to hold a general meeting of the league in Chicago next Saturday. At that session the question of the playing schedule and the matter of whether the Pittsburgh Pirates will play their home games in Philadelphia will be taken up. No player trades were announced today although it is believed several are in the making.

WAGNER RESIGNS AS RED SOX MANAGER

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Charles "Heinie" Wagner has resigned as manager of the Boston Red Sox, that baseball club announced today. Wagner served as manager this season. His successor had not been named.

GUS SONNENBERG

When "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg was heading to the Pacific Coast last year, Fred Richardson, immediately set about the task of having the champion show in Victoria first, and he was successful. Yesterday the local promoter announced that he had been able to repeat this feat and is bringing the champion here on November 8, which will again mark the opening of his second tour of Pacific Coast cities.

The matter of an opponent for Sonnenberg is now under consideration. However, it was definitely stated last night that Bob Kruse, who met Sonnenberg here last year, will not be his opponent in the coming match. There are various reasons for this move, the greatest being that the local promoter wanted an entirely new match.

Many of the topnotchers who have appeared here are after the shot at the champion, fully realizing that his title will be at stake. In the meantime the local matchmaker has before him the task of providing an opponent who will meet public favor.

Al Karasick, the "Russian Lion," who of late has become popular with local fans, is one of the many men who is anxious for a title go with Sonnenberg. As to whether or not his offer would be accepted the local promoter would not say last night.

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—Led by high dignitaries of the church and state in Quebec Province, ten thousand people gathered in La Fontaine Park yesterday to dedicate the monument erected to the memory of Sir Louis Hippolyte La Fontaine, who was one of the leading French-Canadian statesmen of the days of 1837 and twice Prime Minister, following the union of Upper and Lower Canada in 1840.

McCORMACK'S VOICE PERFECTLY RENDERED

Lifelike Reproduction Attained in "Song o' My Heart" at Dominion

There's one place you must go as soon as you can find the time—and make it quick, because you have only five days, according to Manager Robertson.

Of course, it is "Song o' My Heart," which opened yesterday at the Dominion Theatre. One was not surprised at the marvelous quality of John McCormack's voice. The direction under the guiding hand of Frank Borzage, who made "Seventh Heaven" and other brilliant Fox successes, was as deft as expected to be. It was the movie-tone clarity, the lifelike reproductive facility of this Fox triumph which surprised us most of all.

The story, ably written by Tom Barry, is human, appealing, and delightfully portrayed by the star. And the songs he sings, all eleven of them, are introduced as part and parcel of the drama which unfolds colorfully.

That is the famous pair of "Charming Sinners" and "The Laughing Lady," Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook, newly and brilliantly appointed by Paramount for "Anybody's Woman." In its premier engagement as a dialogue picture, now and ending Saturday at the Capitol Theatre.

Of course you've heard of the author, Gouverneur Morris; likely you recall the story as "The Better Wife." And certainly you've heard of Mr. Laury's lady directorial prodigy, Dorothy Arzner. Miss Arzner has accomplished another "Sarah and Son," which may have been made easy through the literary assistance of Zoe Akins, who wrote the screen play, a duty she acquitted also for "Sarah."

Later as a play "The Virginian" made a universal success, bringing undying fame to its author, Owen Wister and Kirk La Shelle, and to a number of actors who played the title role on tour of the country.

FILM WILL SHOW SOKOL MOVEMENT

The Sokol movement of the Yugoslavs, having as its object "A Sound Mind in a Sound Body," has spread not only throughout Yugoslavia but also throughout the nations of Southern Europe.

This system of physical culture is used by both sexes of all ages and all grades of society. And the same exercises are voluntarily practiced at all centres, so that at the great national festivals all groups come together, and, forming one huge body, go through these gymnastic exercises with the same precision and at the same tempo. The rhythmic effect of these mass movements is thrilling.

One common ideal inspires and animates the whole nation; to be truly patriotic one must be physically fit as well as mentally alert. The film of the Yugoslav National festival of June, 1929, is showing, by special arrangement, next Saturday, October 4, at 10:30 in the morning at the Coliseum Theatre.

FRATERNAL BODIES DISCUSS INSURANCE

State Health System Is Considered From All Aspects—Further Meeting Next Month

An animated discussion upon the pros and cons of a State Health Insurance Act in British Columbia, and the effect that such a measure would have upon the people of the Province, took place at a meeting of the fraternal organizations of Victoria, held Saturday night in the A.O.F. Hall. Albert Downes was elected secretary of the meeting. W. P. Fullerton spoke at length upon the advantages gained by the Old Country from state health insurance. There was no phase in the problems which faced British Columbia, he said, which could not be met by a parallel form of administration. A. Pleatman pointed out that the fraternal societies were capable of putting machinery in force which could enforce the act more economically than the Provincial Government.

Other speakers at the meeting were: Mr. Hughes, Mr. Nunn, Mr. Brindley, F. LeRoy, Mrs. Appleton, Mrs. Fieldhouse, T. Smith, Dr. Wace, Mr. Colby, Mr. Greenwood and Mr. Moody.

A joint meeting of the fraternal organizations will again discuss the matter in a month's time.

If September 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to noon, from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., and 8:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:45 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Conflicting influences prevail on this date, and caution must be exercised in all things and at all times. When you come to recount the joys of the day, the sweetest and most remembered will be that which came from an unexpected source, and as a surprise. Avoid speculative adventures.

The children born on this September 30th will have silent natures, and an almost impenetrable reserve. They will suffer through their shyness and sensitiveness, and will long to make friends more easily. They will be one hundred per cent loyal, industrious and ambitious.

ZUYDER ZEE RED VISIBLE

Drainage of the Zuyder Zee, in Holland, has progressed to a point where the sea bed is visible, and an area of 45,000 acres lying just inside the island of Wieringen is rapidly drying up. Two pumping stations have been drawing off 4,000,000 tons of water a day from the historic body of water, which has been completely dried in. It is expected that within a few months a total of seventy-seven square miles of rich, heavy clay soil will have been won back from the sea and be available for farming.

Good Results ALWAYS with MAGIC BAKING POWDER

YOU never have to experiment when you bake with Magic Baking Powder.

For no matter where you buy it, or what you use it for, every spoonful from every tin gives identically the same full leavening qualities. All its ingredients are uniformly pure and wholesome.

This means that if you use Magic Baking Powder you are sure to get the same satisfactory results, no matter what you are baking.

Muffins, for instance, are better when made the "Magic" way. They always have that feathery lightness that makes good muffins a delight for any meal.

3 out of every 4 women who bake at home say they use Magic Baking Powder because it gives consistently better baking results.

Use it for all your baking and you, too, can always be sure of complete satisfaction.

*This fact was proven in a recent Dominion-wide investigation.

RECIPE FOR MUFFINS

1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups flour

3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sweet milk

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs one by one, beat well. Sift dry ingredients together and add to first mixture alternately with milk. Beat not stiff enough, add a little more flour. Put in well-greased muffin pans and bake for 20 minutes in a quick oven.

If you bake at home, send for the New Magic Cook Book. It will provide you with dozens of interesting suggestions to help you with your baking. A copy will be sent free on request.

HON. J. W. JONES WILL OPEN B.C. CONVENTION

Speaker of House to Official at Union of Municipalities' Parley at Kelowna

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 29.—Hon. J. W. Jones, Speaker of the Legislature, will open the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at Kelowna on Wednesday, October 8, according to the convention programme issued today by Mayor A. W. Gray, secretary of the union. An address of welcome will be given by Mayor D. H. Rattenbury, of Kelowna, to which Alderman John Bennett, of Vancouver, will reply.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS
Several prominent speakers have been chosen to address the fourteenth convention of the Good Roads League of British Columbia, which will be held the day previous to the opening of the Municipal Union convention.

S. S. McDiarmid, city engineer of Trail, will speak on "City Street Improvements". Patrick Philip, deputy minister of public works, will speak on the maintenance of British Columbia highways, while S. L. Squire, Toronto, executive chairman of the Canadian Good Roads Association, will give an address on "Co-operation."

D. E. Mackenzie, president of the Automobile Association of British Columbia, will speak on "The Highway and the Motorist."

GOOD ROADS LUNCHEON
Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Public Works, will address the Good Roads luncheon Wednesday noon. At the morning session a paper on "Highway Hazards" will be given by Dr. P. E. Doolittle, Toronto, president of the Canadian Automobile Association.

The meeting of the Municipal Officers' Association will be held Wednesday afternoon, October 8.

After saving a boy from drowning at Broadstairs, England, Dr. Davies, a cowboy father, sixty-five years old, dropped dead as the result of overexertion.

Algers, the speaker described as "the Los Angeles of the East." This city had a huge building programme and was making rapid development.

TRIBUTE TO ITALIANS
Dr. Davies paid a glowing tribute to the Italian race. Everywhere one noticed the splendid discipline and ideals of service introduced by Mussolini.

The speaker had visited Naples, the Isle of Capri, the Blue Grotto and Vesuvius, where, ten hours after the party had left, 4,000 lives were lost in an earthquake. Rome, he said, was still the Eternal City, and it was not too much to say that St. Peter's was the most wonderful edifice in the world. The party also visited Florence and Venice, in describing which, said Dr. Davies, "superlatives were inadequate."

Switzerland, continued the speaker, was a country whose inhabitants had not fought for centuries and knew how to live.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS
Here he had visited the assembly hall of the League of Nations at Geneva, and had been chiefly impressed by the fact that over 700 seats were reserved for the press of the world. He commented upon the impossibility of secrecy in any future national agreements, and stated that this would go far to mitigate the chances of treachery and war.

Austria, where the average salary is $40 month, was busily reconstructing the country after the world war. The speaker touched upon the Passion Play at Oberammergau, where travelers from all over the world witnessed "the

Great Scenic Appeal of B.C. Interior Waterways May Bring Developments

Private Interests Contemplate Tourist Resorts in Ootsa Area

Magnificent scenic grandeur in British Columbia's lake district, in the Ootsa-Ehulak area, which comprise over a million acres of land bejewelled with lakes and rivers linking into one great watercourse nearly 200 miles in length, will be developed as a tourist attraction of the Coast Range district.

For years the province has, through medium of publication and information supplied, drawn the attention of residents and tourists in British Columbia, to canoe routes which give access to some of the most beautiful scenery in the world.

TOURIST FACILITIES
Now active development of the grand lake circuit in the Ootsa area is contemplated by agencies interested in the early establishment of tourist facilities.

The grand lake circuit is one of many routes which may be followed for hundreds of miles, in the aggregate, by canoe and easy portages from waterway to waterway, in a very wide section of the central portion of the province. These waterways, in part, spread like giant fingers into the Coast Range of mountains, and pass through territory of unsurpassed beauty.

CIRCUIT DEVELOPMENT
The Ootsa-Ehulak circuit, 184 miles in length, was developed by means of portages and trails led under the direction of the Government. Miniature rails to truck boats canoe across the short and links on the route were installed last year, and paved the way for the active development of the scenic waterway which is now expected to follow.

From a start at the settlement on the north side of Ootsa Lake, sixty-one miles from Houston on the Canadian National Railway, canoes or boats may be taken over a twenty-mile course to the western end of the lake, to Tahsta River, thence by way of Sinclair Lake, French Peak, Thomas Bay. The course then follows the Nahoko River, to Ruch Lake, proceeding by way of Nahoko Lake, and Ootsa River to Tahsta Lake, and back to the starting point at Ootsa Lake settlement. Many portages may be made on the 184-mile circuit.

Finest dramatic acting which can be seen this side of Eternity!"

France, like Austria, had been recuperating and reconstructing. "The French peasant," said Dr. Davies, "begins to build as soon as the armies have passed. There are no signs of war now except the millions of graves, and, in this connection I think it was the greatest pity to send American mothers to the graveyards twelve years after the Armistice. It would have been so much better to have let them stay at home with their illusions."

OLD WORLD GANGSTER
"Dr. Davies visited the tomb of Napoleon, whom he described as 'a gangster of the old world.' He spoke also of the Palace of Versailles, with its twenty-five miles of grounds which are watered every night at a cost of 4,000,000 francs.

The speaker had very little to say about England; but what he did say was very much to the point. "I don't know who won the war," said Dr. Davies. "Probably it was I, but I was not there."

He said that England, although she kept her soul, Lloyd George was right when he said that the country was facing a crisis more serious than the war. The Mother Country will pull through, but she needs the help of every one of her grown-up children within the Empire."

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S ADDRESS TO BE HEARD

President Hoover's address at the annual dinner of the American Bankers' Association in Cleveland, Ohio, will be delivered Thursday evening, October 2, between 5:30 and 6 o'clock Pacific standard time, and broadcast over the Columbia network.

In announcing the time of the broadcast, the White House noted today that, as the occasion was a convention of bankers, an important pronouncement on the business situation was to be expected. Delivery of the speech will consume most of the half-hour period.

Within the week two other presidential broadcasts will be heard over the Columbia network. On Tuesday, October 7, Mr. Hoover will speak at the sequentennial celebration of the Battle of King's Mountain, held on the battlefield in York County, South Carolina. The broadcast period will be from 11:30 to 12 p.m., Pacific standard time.

CHESTER, N.S. Sept. 4.—Dus. It is understood, to a defect in mechanism, a torpedo said to be worth $10,000 sank while H.M.C.S. Champlain was engaged in practice off Chester Basin recently. A thorough search will be made and an investigation held.

Both Pocket and Desk Pen Now in One

Any Parker Duofold CAVES PRICE OF A SECOND PEN

Offers This Combination PEN GUARANTEED FOR LIFE

Getting the Parker Duofold now like getting two Pens at the price of one. Attaching a tapered end converts it into a Desk Set Pen. Removing the taper restores it to a pocket Pen.

Either way, you save the price of a second pen. You have only one Pen to fill instead of two. And whether you write at your desk or on the go, you always have your favorite point.

You have a non-breakable Permaline barrel that holds 17.4% more ink than average, size for size—that is jewel-like in lustre, color, and beauty. And most of all—the famous Duofold velvet point that writes with Geo. S. Parker's 47th improvement—Foresure Touch.

Even at higher prices, other makers have been unable to match this classic. Now that it takes the place of a special pen for the pocket and another for the desk, its sales are soaring beyond all previous heights.

Go and ask the nearest dealer to show how the Duofold is changed back and forth from a Pocket to a Desk Set Pen. If you own a Parker, take it with you. If not, go anyway and see this revolutionary invention.

CHAPTER I

Peter Piper sat in a large wooden rocking chair, his feet elevated to the veranda railing. Peter was in the state of philosophic calm induced by a long spent day in the open air. His glance traveled with approval from his grey flannel shirt, along outstretched legs clad in streaked corduroy trousers, to his mud-encrusted boots.

The smoke from his pipe rose in a wavering line and broke into dissolving patterns in the windless air, meeting and parting from a similar twisting thread that rose from the pipe of the man beside him.

"Well," he remarked with satisfaction to the hotelkeeper, "We cannot expect to be bath grand and comfortable."

"Huh?"

The two rocking chairs squeaked in unison, the two pairs of boots presented their extensive soles to the road from the wooden railing, while the old man gravely and slowly assimilated the unfamiliar quotation.

"It means," Peter helped him out with a wave of the hand holding his pipe, "that I like this better than a resort with golf links and a jazz orchestra every evening."

"No," Carter agreed without regret, "we ain't got no golf links. They'd interfere with the sheep, I reckon."

Peter lifted his eyes lazily to the tawny yellow hills humped against the sky. Between the hills densely massed live oak trees were of a green so dark the hills looked almost black in the sunshine, against the dry iron-colored grass of a California August. Tiny thread-like paths criss-crossed down the slopes from the upper pastures, paths worn by the small hard hoofs of sheep.

"Sheep must have been the original commuters," Peter's glance swung from the hills to the old man beside him, seeking appreciation. "Maybe that's why commuters at the rush hour bear such a remarkable resemblance to sheep."

"Huh?"

Peter made a mental note of his remark, to repeat to Barbara when she came back from the postoffice. He considered it rather a bright idea, and "Huh?" was an altogether insufficient response to Peter's bright idea.

For several moments the squeak of the two chairs as one or the other man slightly changed his position was the only sound. Then Peter brought his feet with a thump from the railing to the floor.

"You know," he said, turning to the old man, his grey eyes shining with enthusiasm, "my wife and I oughtn't be the only guests in this hotel. You have good food, a fine location, just enough off the beaten track, and plenty of rooms. A proper advertising campaign would put your place over big, without spoiling its own particular atmosphere. Put a good snappy ad in the Herald, for instance."

"No, mister," Carter said with finality. "Advertising's no good. I've tried it."

"Maybe you didn't have the right kind of copy," Peter suggested. "I'd be glad to fix a layout for you and take it up with the advertising manager when I get back to the Herald."

"I tell you, it's no good," the old man reiterated patiently, as if he were trying to quiet a too persistent child. "Another fellow said just what you did, four years come May, and I did what he told me to, and I like to drove me plumb nervous. Folks came till all the rooms was filled up, and then I had to turn 'em away. I don't like to turn no body away. And the cooking got too much for the missus, till she was clean wore out. The folks took up all the veranda chairs, and there wasn't no place left for me to sit of an afternoon."

"I've lived here, man and boy, for sixty-three years, and that Summer is the only one I can remember on that I didn't get no enjoyment out of. It ain't that I ain't hospitable, you understand," he added with instinctive courtesy. "I'm glad to have a couple like you and your missus come up here for a couple of weeks. But I learned my lesson about advertising. 'Never again,' I says, and I've stuck to it."

"Pee-ter!"

Peter jumped to his feet and vaulted over the veranda railing at the sound of his name. Along the road, he felt half swinging in one hand and a small packet of mail tucked under the other arm, came Barbara.

Peter had once said that there were many Barbaras, in the days when their lives first became entangled during the heart-rending, breath-taking days when the Herald reporter had covered the story known from coast to coast as the "Tule Marsh Murder."

"The Siers, foothills were given over to ranching now; but traces of an earlier day remained in the 'ghost towns' of a vanished boom, touching the region with the romance of old and abandoned things."

Memories softened and shadowed a land which nature had made almost too garishly beautiful. The remembrance of an irreparable past softened, too, the hard outlines of the crude, harsh struggle which lay beneath a prosperity that had turned the dead gold of the stream-beds to the living gold of the grassy slopes.

As Barbara quickened her pace to meet Peter, her brown tweed knicker suit giving little freedom to her slender body, her yellow-brown cap of close-cut hair matching the burnt gold of the Summer grass. Peter wished that he might always see her thus.

There might be worse lives, after all, than that of the old hotelkeeper who never had to rush for a dead-line, whose only "editions" were marked by the imperceptible slow shifting of the seasons.

"Here's the paper, Peter. I'm sure the Herald won't mind if you take a glance at it as we go in."

Barbara held out a folded mail edition of the Herald.

"Take the thing away," Peter waved Barbara's extended hand aside with a grimace of disgust. "This is a vacation, I tell you! And I don't belong in the company of the sailors who spend their time ashore in rowing around the lake, nor do I feel any affinity for the postmen who are alleged to devote their vacations to long walks."

He tucked his arm through Barbara's and continued solemnly, "I wish I might never see a newspaper again. I wish vacation would last forever."

"Huh!" Barbara's snort was a burlesque imitation of Carter's favorite conversational response. As they mounted the wooden steps to the veranda, a small dark figure appeared in the doorway, a figure for whom the adjective gray was invented.

"You give that paper to me, Miss Piper, before Jake gets it," Mrs. Carter demanded, her eyes darting not unthinkingly to the huge figure slumped in the big rocking chair.

"He just scatters it all around on the floor for me to pick up. Ain't that just like a man? If he has it last, he's the one who has to put it together again to take up to the Jenkinses."

"Is it 'community property'?" Barbara asked, her lips twitching.

"Maybe you'd call it that," the Jenkinses and us each pays half of the subscription. We get it first, and I cut out the recipes and things like that if I want to. Then Jenkins gets it and can keep it to light the fire with. We figured that was fair to both of us. But maybe you and Mr. Piper would like to look at it while I set the table for supper?"

"Peter's off newspapers for life," Barbara laughed. "You see, he works on the same Herald in the city, and he wants to get clear away from everything." She gave Mrs. Carter's hand a friendly pat as the older woman turned to go, and her voice dropped to a note of grave sincerity.

"I'm so glad we happened to stop here last night," she said. "I think we'll stay the rest of our time here. Eh, Peter?"

"The world forgetting, by the world forgot"—that's the stuff for me," Peter agreed, little knowing how often, in the hectic days that followed, his chance quotation would recur to his mind in accents of grotesque irony.

Mrs. Carter had turned to re-enter the house and Barbara was settling herself in the squeakiest of the rocking chairs when the little group was startled into immobility by the sound of a voice from the road.

"Hey! Hey there!"

The hail broke in the sobbing gasp of one whose breath can be caught only in shallow jerks.

Peter leaned over the veranda railing and peered into the gathering twilight at the figure of a woman running unsteadily, wavering steps up the walk. One hand was pressed to her side. The other waved with weak urgency to attract attention.

With surprising agility Carter heaved from his chair and ran down the steps, supporting the woman's arm as she staggered towards him.

"There, there, Mrs. Coak, you're all beat out. Don't try to talk till you've set down and caught your breath."

"I can't wait," the newcomer panted. "Something terrible's happened. She clung to the railing for a moment. Then her shaking knees gave way under her and she sank exhausted on the lowest step. "Mr. Mortenson's dead! He's been shot. He's all fallen over on the table at the ranch house office. There's nobody there but one of the hands and Miss Everet. You gotta come with me—right away."

"Sure we'll come," Carter's voice rumbled soothingly. "But you'd better stay here. You ain't in no state to walk a mile and a half back to the ranch. You're plumb beat out."

"I ran—most every step of the way here," Mrs. Coak said, mopping her dripping forehead with the sleeve of her gingham dress. "But I can't stay, I gotta get back."

Peter, after listening silently to Mrs. Coak's fragmentary statement, had swung his long legs over the veranda railing and disappeared like a grey shadow into the dusk.

(To Be Continued.)

The sound of a sputtering self-starter, merging into the steady whirr of a racing automobile engine came from the side yard when "Boozy," Peter's antiquated and valiant car, was parked under a tree.

The headlights swept the grass, turning its green to a sickly yellow, as the car nosed her way to the road.

Leaving the engine running, Peter jumped over the door without opening it.

"Get in, both of you. I'll run you out there, and you can tell us what it's all about on the way, he said. "How long has the man been dead?"

"I don't know. I didn't look at the clock. I found it—when I went down from the ranch house to see if he'd sent for that flour I ordered. I didn't go back to the house to tell Mr. Everet because I reckon she's the one that done it."

Barbara, leaning forward over the veranda rail, saw Peter's face transfigured in the glare of the headlights. The grey eyes shone with excitement behind the thick-lensed glasses, and the wide mouth was drawn taut in a thin, eager line.

"Mrs. Carter, you'll have to get the town constable and send him out. He'll have some sort of car, I suppose," Peter ordered. "That means—don't go for him in less than half an hour. It looks as if this might be a story—a story all for the Herald's little own, with Peter Piper in on the ground floor and not so much as a country correspondent in sight!" Peter's voice rose in a chant of irrepressible triumph. "I want to have a little time with it before the police begin to mess about."

As the car swung into the road, taking the ruts in a series of leaps, Barbara heard the screen door slam behind Mrs. Carter. To her tense nerves, it seemed the slamming shut of a door upon their treasured peace.

But waited backward down the road from the disappearing car came another sound—a thin, wailing, minor whistle, the battle cry of Peter Piper on the trail of a big story.

"Hoo-oo-oo, hu-hu-hu-hu!"

Despite the tragedy that had crashed upon them, Barbara smiled. The postman was taking his walk, after all.

STOP SIGNS ARE SAID TO BE INCONSPICUOUS

The Victoria branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia has written to the police commissioners of Saanich giving the information that there are conditions about some of the stop signs on the roads in the municipality not being placed in a position where they are readily noticed by the motorists.

One of these mentioned is the sign at the corner of Lime Kiln Road and West Saanich Road.

The club writes that it is in favor of strict enforcement of laws for safety on the roads, but believes that the utmost care should be taken to have the signs properly placed so that no confusion may occur.

It is also advised that freshly promulgated regulations should not be the subject of "demonstrative enforcement."

SOUND AUCTION

and CONTRACT
by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD
The World's Greatest Authority

A Simple Squeeze		THE PLAY
♠ A 7 5 2	♠ K 9	West opens his fourth best Spade, the six. North plays the two, East the King and South the three. East returns the nine of Spades and South takes the trick with the Queen.
♠ A 8 6 3	♠ J 7	Declarer now sees that he can make two Spades, two Diamonds and two Hearts; likewise that he should make either two or three Clubs, provided, of course, that West can be prevented from getting in to make a long spade.
♠ 10 9 7	♠ A K 4 3	Since the Diamond suit is the one lacking in tops, and thus requiring the least amount of finesse, Declarer leads the five of Hearts. The Queen is led from Declarer's hand on the hope that the ten in Dummy may become a re-entry to take a second finesse in Clubs should it become necessary. However, East takes the trick with the King, and leads the Club himself. South plays the Jack of Clubs and West takes the trick with the King.
♠ J 10 8 6 4	♠ 10 9 8 5 3 2	Since it is possible that Declarer will have to play for the Heart suit, of which West holds four, the Queen-nine, the Jack of Spades is led in order to establish two good cards in the suit. The trick is taken with the Ace of Spades and Declarer discards the five of Hearts.
♠ Q 9 4 2	♠ K 10 5	Declarer must go ahead with the establishment of the Diamonds in spite of the fact that West may hold the Ace and be enabled to make his Spades. Accordingly the ten of Diamonds is led and, East refusing to take this trick, the nine is led and East, taking the trick with the Ace, West discarding a Heart.
♠ 5 3	♠ Q J 8 6	Since there are but two Clubs in Dummy, East can afford to lead the ten of Clubs. This trick Declarer takes with the Queen. The last Diamond is led from Declarer's hand. West discarding a Spade and North a Club, for there is now a probability that West's original hand consisted of five Spades and two Diamonds, which are known, together with four Hearts and two Clubs. The lead of the Ace of Clubs confirms this, for West, failing to follow suit, must now discard either his high Spade or a Heart. No matter which he discards, North discards the other, so that after the King of Hearts is led by Declarer, North must take the remaining tricks either with the Ace and eight of Hearts or the Ace of Hearts and seven of Spades.

There are many players who brush aside end play propositions with the mere statement that they occur so infrequently that it is not worth while to bother with the possibility of one of a number of situations existing. It is these players who will lose the greatest number of potential games. Where combined hands are overpowering, the game can be made through brute strength, but it is those players who will pick up a game on the close hand that must in the end get the best results.

The above deal is one in which the prospect of a squeeze develops at a comparatively early stage of the play.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING
Contract: South, the Dealer, opens the bidding with one No Trump and West passes. North has two quick tricks in his hand, but they are Aces with practically no supporting cards of an intermediate nature. However, they should be shown over an intermediate pass, or partner may well have a strong rebid. To make an original bid of two No Trumps would have required approximately four quick tricks, together with all four suits stopped and three of them doubly stopped. East passes and South bids three No Trumps, concluding the bidding.

Auction: South obtains the declaration with his bid of one No Trump.
